Mayor's choices rejected again by council majority

By DAVID LELAND

A BITTERLY divided Carmel City Council this week was unable to agree on the mayor's two city commission nominees, or the very process by which their names were brought to the council for approval.

Mayor Jean Grace had offered local attorney/property owner Bob D'Isidoro as her nominee for the Carmel Planning Commission slot vacated by Barbara Lysle. She also had sought to have retired businessman Don Kremer appointed to the Forest and Beach Commission.

'I am very disturbed that the majority of the council will not support me in the nomination of people who I think will help the community.

— Jean Grace

However, the appointments were voted down (3-2, with Grace and Councilman Bob Fischer dissenting), which set the stage for what some residents considered to be a "low point" in city council meetings of recent years.

"What a real, real tragedy," said Fischer, after D'Isidoro's nomination failed. "Here we have an individual that has dedicated his life to Carmel."

But according to Councilmember Jim Wright, neither nomination had a chance from the meeting's onset.

"The scene tonight was orchestrated by the mayor," said Wright, who had notified Grace that he wanted her nomination to be someone other than a businessperson. "The mayor knew full well it (nominations) would not be supported; it was done with political motivations."

The majority of the council also indicated they did not support Kremer because they wanted someone from the Friends of the Forest to be appointed.

Wright said Grace has abused her right to nominate people to city commissions by not taking into account the wishes of other city councilmembers.

"In my mind the situation that was witnessed here tonight was brought about by the mayor, not the majority of the council," he said.

However, City Atty. Don Freeman indicated that Grace had been following the letter of the law when making her nominations.

"I am very disturbed that the majority of the council will not support me in the nomination of people who I think will help the community," Grace said. "I think any qualified, excellent candidate...will think twice after this behavior (by council) tonight."

Memories of old Carmel committed to video

By ANNE PAPINEAU

MEMORIES OF Carmel Past, once preserved only in the minds of those who lived them, are being committed to video for the education and enjoyment of generations to come.

It's a process that will take months, plus uncounted hours of volunteer effort, to complete the video history launched by Carmel Heritage. The project will also cost an estimated $100,000, of which the non-profit group has collected about a third so far. But if all goes according to plan, Carmel Heritage members hope to produce a video documentary worthy of airing over the Public Broadcasting System.

'... We've just done the first phase of our shooting. It's intended to be objective and forthright and tasteful, so that the community can understand its origins and be prepared to understand its future.'

-- Roger Newell

The yet untitled, 52-minute project will open with historical references dating back to the time of the first Carmelites, the Native Americans. Later, on-camera interviews record memories of residents who recall turn-of-the-century Carmel, and beyond.

According to organizers, this is no puff piece, but a valuable oral and visual history of the community.

"We're not trying to bring more people to Carmel," explained Jim Moore, communications chairman for the project.

"It's designed for Carmelites and their children," added Kay Prine, herself a long-time Carmelite and a member of Carmel Heritage.

Professional camera crews, gathered with the assistance of Carmel Heritage member Clint Eastwood, have been visiting town since early May. Taping will continue on and off through the end of the year, explained Roger Newell, president of the Carmel Heritage board of directors.

Among those who have faced director Julian Ludwig and his unblinking Sony BetaCam are Cole Weston, who was interviewed at two locations: the studio built by his father in Carmel Highlands and the Forest Theater, where he is currently directing Of Mice and Men.

Weston's memories are diverse. A Sunset School graduate, he spent much of his boyhood in Carmel, and has been involved with the historic outdoor theater since 1948.

Weston said it was not difficult for him to reminisce for the benefit of the video project.

"I do photographic workshops all over the world," he said. "In the kind of work I do, I'm asked the most personal questions, like about the love life of my father (photographer Edward Weston). I used to spend hours talking with my father in the Highlands, and I wished I'd taped those conversations."

Weston said the film crew questioned him about "the good old days."

"I used to be able to walk from Monte Verde and Ocean Avenue right to the beach — there was nothing built yet. The policeman, Gus, used to chase us on his horse."

Others who have had their memories taped so far include Betty Green, Richard Menn, Marjory Lloyd, Connie Palms and Elayne Chanslor.

Home movies donated by Carmelites and photographs supplied by the history room at Harrison Memorial Library Park Branch will be interwoven into the documentary. Newell said that Carmel Heritage is still searching for vintage images, movies especially, for use in the project.

"We have a film of a 1924 overflight of Carmel," he noted. "And there is a copy of a 1930s home movie, footage of an original play that was shot at Point Lobos."

Some 30 hours of original video has been recorded so far for the project, and obviously just moments can be included from each interview. But as noted by Jim Moore, all the videotape will be preserved as part of the Carmel Heritage archives. Newell also said there is some possibility this project may inspire sequels.

The video history is but one current effort of Carmel Heritage. The group has nearly 400 members, and fosters the collection, preservation and interpretation of Carmel's historic and cultural heritage.

Other projects include recording of an oral history, completing a block-by-block architectural survey of Carmel-by-the-Sea, restora-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

About that mailing

Dear Editor:

The story in the May 30th Carmel Pine Cone on the Voice of Carmel was not clear as to whom the mailing was sent. It was addressed to approximately 5,300 people, of whom about 3,900 are registered voters in Carmel. The balance was sent to Carmel property owners who are not voters.

Also needing corection is the cover letter of the mailing, which, due to a printer's error, left out the name of a highly regarded member of our committee. He is Fred Keeble, who has served more than 20 years on the Carmel Planning Commission, including many times as its chairman.

How would Bill feel?

Dear Editor:

I can't help but wonder how Bill Overstreet, who founded the Carmel Pine Cone in 1915, would feel if he returned to Carmel today, and lacking the money for the very high rents, went to the Carmel Foundation to apply for a place on their waiting list for senior (low income) housing? Bill Overstreet would receive quite a shock to discover he was not welcome in this town. No, he would be told, "You are not eligible since you have not lived here in the past ten years."

The same would hold true for Perry Newberry, Carmel's first mayor, who, if she were to rise from the grave and come back seeking a place to live, would be given the same answer.

I am a native of Carmel and, out of curiosity, I wonder if anyone has made a count of how many of us are left? I returned to this area in 1983 because I was homesick. I felt I could not live another minute away from my hometown. I moved into an apartment in the Carmel Valley, thinking that, within a few months, I would be able to move "home" and that, as least, in the valley I'd be nearby.

In the first two years, before I became seriously ill, it was okay, even though, after all, I could find no rental I could afford in Carmel. But every other day or so I came down the valley and went to the south beach. I would park my care, take a walk on the beach, gaze at Point Lobos, then I would get back in my car and write. I did almost no writing where I lived in the valley. I was used to the inspiration of the sea, Point Lobos, and the Sur coast.

I am now very desperately in need of the inspiration I find in my hometown, but the goal is farther away than ever. I no longer own land, I no longer own a home in Carmel; I have no money; I have, therefore, not been able to rent a place in Carmel within the past 10 years, and so—I am not eligible for the Carmel Foundation housing list.

I am, frankly, aghast. I can't believe that I am rejected. As I say, I wonder how many oldtimers are left in our town? Or should I say "our town?" Maybe I should say "your town."

I am, I repeat, aghast.

Why on earth did the Carmel Foundation formulate rules that would exclude the very people who made Carmel what it is? Where is tradition? And why on earth are people so hypocritical as to pretend to respect Carmel's past history when they exclude from their precincts the not-yet-extinct but soon-to-be extinct old-time-denizens???

Bothered by letter

Dear Editor:

In your last issue you printed a letter regarding Measure A from Merv Sutton. It bothered me so much that I found myself writing my first letter to an editor - and have also sent a copy to Assemblyman Farr. Who knows where this may lead me, but I certainly feel better for having put it on paper.

Merv Sutton's letter last week raised an interesting point regarding Measure A. In it he states that since we have saved over the years through Prop 13, it isn't much to ask for extra money for our schools.

This may be true for the Suttons and others who have profitted from Prop 13. It is not true for those of us who have changed our residences and are paying considerably higher taxes.

If everyone was under the same tax structure, maybe there wouldn't be a need to ask for more money for our schools.

New taxes are a sham

Dear Editor:

As one of your readers, I want to urge you in the strongest terms possible to increase your coverage of the fact that for every new dollar that Congress has raised this year in new taxes, it has increased spending by $1.78. As Reader's Digest reported, the budget and new taxes are a "sham."

To put it bluntly, last year Congress conned the American people and the new media. They told us we should go along with their "deficit reduction package" which included tax increases for every American because we had to get the deficit under control. But in the end, they just wanted to take more or our income in taxes.

In the name of deficit reduction, they enacted the second largest tax increase ever and then turned right around and increased spending by $111 billion - pushing the deficit to a new record.

It was the clearest case ever of false advertising. And, as they demonstrated when they destroyed Gramm-Rudman and the other controls on spending, Congress never intended to reduce the deficit or control wasteful spending.

Tragically, the American people and the news media bought the "this budget agreement will reduce the deficit" story hook, line and sinker. And now we are paying the price in higher taxes and higher deficits. I urge you to expand your coverage and report important facts, such as:

1. Congress enacted the second largest tax increase in history;
2. Congress increased spending by $111 billion;
3. Congress enlarged the deficit by $100 billion to an all-time record of $320 billion for FY 1991 alone;
4. Congress pushed the national debt to a new record and increased the annual interest payment on the debt to a staggering $254 BILLION; and,
5. Congress destroyed the Gramm-Rudman Deficit Reduction Act and all other effective controls on future congressional wasteful spending.

As Citizens Against Government Waste has pointed out repeatedly, we have this skyrocketing deficit today not because of the recession but because Congress refuses to stop its reckless spending. Unless we get Congress' runaway taxes and wasteful deficit spending under control we will all be in very, very serious trouble very soon. I urge you to give more coverage to this all-important story. Thank you.

Of vital importance

Dear Editor:

Surely everyone attending the last two Planning Commission meetings on zoning changes has appreciated the Commissioners' interest in reactions from the community. However, listening, one is left with more than a few questions that do not appear to have been discussed but which seem to be of vital importance prior to any action as serious as those being contemplated.

To mention some that come to mind:

What evidence do we have that devitalization of the business community is due to the present zoning or that a change will alter this condition?

What role do you believe exorbitant rents play in businesses leaving Carmel?

What effect will any zoning change have on the preservation of service-oriented business?

The CBA and CRA made the request for an independent commission to study ordinances in order to make their reactions known, but the answer to these requests was that there was not sufficient time. Would it not be advisable that an explanation be offered as to the urgency for a change in zoning? The CBA and the CRA represent a sizable number of concerned persons in this community if the Commission is truly interested in reactions to any possible action.

EDITORIAL

A slap in the face

SUCH A wanton disrespect and disregard for fellow residents has rarely been witnessed in this small village.

What else could we be referring to than the unfortunate travesty at this week's Carmel City Council meeting, where two citizens, Bob D'Isidoro and Don Kremer, wishing to serve our city on two commissions, were soundly rejected by the council majority.

Politely rejected, yes, but rebuffed nevertheless, and for specious reasons.

We find it transparently vindictive and unforgivable that Councilmembers Jim Wright, Ken White and Barbara Brooks would bring their long-simmering resentments and petty grievances against the mayor to an open meeting.

If they were looking for sympathy from the audience, it failed to appear. If they were looking for support, even the Carmel Residents Association judiciously refrained from jumping into the fray.

Brooks' self-serving statements about "team spirit" would be laughable given the context of the situation at hand. But this is no laughing matter and the damage is not only done, but could have far-reaching implications.

What the council majority may have succeeded in doing is to cause those considering serving on a commission, or any other city board, to think twice about serving and committing precious time and effort. It's hard enough to find the time to serve your community without serving extra combat duty before a city council majority bent on revenge.

The only positive aspect of this week's meeting may not become apparent until next year's city council election when, maybe, Carmel voters will let it be known that they are concerned about the entire community and all residents, not petty resentments and misguided stereotypes.

Fire district consolidation beat by 3-1 margin

By SUSAN BECK

BY A more than 3-1 margin, local residents voted on June 4 not to annex two county service areas (CSAs) with the Mid Valley Fire Protection District.

Fifth District Karin Strasser Kauffman, whose district includes the fire service areas, said that essentially the no vote on Tuesday's special election Measure M to form a local board of directors for Mid Valley, CSA 43 and 39, was a vote of confidence for the Monterey Country Board of Supervisors.

"We will continue as we have to provide all of the fire districts with the best possible fire protection," said Strasser Kauffman.

The board now faces the decision of choosing between the California Department of Forestry (CDF) or the Mid Valley Fire Department for future residential and wildland fire protection service to the districts.

The two bids were submitted to the board in mid-May, and a special review committee will present their findings on June 18. The board will make its decision on or after that date.

Mid Valley Fire Chief Gary Carmichael said that he still believes that consolidation is a good idea, and he would rather have won but, "at least the voters spoke, and we'll go on. The bell will ring today, and we and the CSAs will go out and work together."

As for the upcoming decision on his department's bid to take over the current CDF contract, Carmichael said, "It will be extremely rough not to go with what the voters said."

Mid Valley made its presentation and it isn't fact, but Carmichael thinks they underbid CDF. He said that even though the bids are a separate issue, it will be difficult for the board of supervisors to ignore the election results.

'At least the voters spoke, and we'll go on. The bell will ring today, and we and the CSAs will go out and work together.'

— Gary Carmichael

Rod Musgrov, CDF division chief of operations, said, "We're hopeful that the bid will again be awarded to us. As a service provider we are here by invitation. If it goes the other way, we will accept it, but it will cause turmoil replacing employees. We don't relish it, but if it occurs we'll have to deal with it."

Anne Bloxom, representing residents of CSA 43 opposed to the annexation, said that while they would have preferred no election at all, the results gave two messages. It voiced the strong desire to continue a reliable contract with CDF and that satisfactory and effective government must be based on accurate and complete information and a sensitive appraisal of public sentiment.

"It is important that the voters deliver the correct message because behaviors that succeed today will be repeated tomorrow," said Bloxom.

In response to the board's decision between CDF and Mid Valley, Bloxom said, "We hope all members of the review committee and the board of supervisors will be able to set aside any motivation to punish or to prevail and concentrate only on selecting the best fire protection contract. We want to purchase a contract that provides the greatest assurance of excellent staffing, stations, and future planning from an agency with a proven record of excellent performance and fiscal responsibility."

Strasser Kauffman said that the board has and will work with all of the fire districts. "My colleagues and I will continue to get good fire service, but it will not be that easy to finance."

The financial difficulites are based in CSA 43 and 39, said Kauffman. Pebble Beach has in the past years provided most of the funds to operate the two service areas.

She said Pebble Beach now has to contend with a multi-million dollar water line repair and is considering going on their own, or certainly not carrying 43 and 39 as they have done.

"I don't blame them, and I don't know how long we can convince them that it's still a good way to go," said Strasser Kauffman.

The other problem is that the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula will not renew the lease on the Carmel Hill Fire Station. Subsequently, a new one will have to be built, costing the fire districts a considerable amount of money, said Strasser Kauffman.

She said that Mid Valley is in better financial shape than the CSAs, and that getting the financing will be done, but without Mid Valley, it will be more difficult. "I will do my best."

The board of supervisors will be advertising within the next few weeks for two advisory committee members for each CSA.

"We will be looking for strong, committed individuals to be more involved than in the past. In light of the financial problems coming up, we will have more frequent meetings and more scrutiny so that the board of supervisors will get the best possible reviews," said Strasser Kauffman.

Measure M got on the ballot after a substantial number of residents petitioned against the consolidation plan. The annexation of CSA 43 and 39 to Mid Valley came about to counter a request by the Local Agency Formation Commission to consolidate seven districts in the area.

School tax measure defeated for third time

By MAC McDONALD

THE THIRD time wasn't the charm that the Carmel Unified School District had hoped for — the Measure A parcel tax vote fell short Tuesday by about 4 percent of the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

Measure A received 4,638 yes votes, but it needed more than 66 percent of the vote to be approved. There were 2,834 no votes for a 62-38 percent "defeat." The tax, if approved, would have levied an $80-a-year tax for four years on the approximately 11,000 parcels in the 600-square-mile school district.

' I don't think we lack support (in the community). I think we have a base of support here. We can tap that reserve to help form something that will last. We need to create a new approach without making cuts.'

— Frank Pinney

The more than $3.5 million in funds would have been used to replace and maintain an aging bus fleet, rid the schools of asbestos, purchase computers and other technical equipment, refurbish classrooms, replace playground equipment and school furniture and refurbish playing fields. None of the funds were to have been used for teacher or administrative salaries.

Even with the defeat, supporters of the measure, a unique collaboration of teachers, parents, administrators and even residents with no obvious ties to the schools, were buoyed by the concerted effort put together for the campaign.

"That's one of the positive things that came out of this campaign," said Vance Baldwin, CUSD's incoming superintendent, who had been on the phone with election officials until nearly midnight the night before. "We hope we can capitalize on that energy and momentum. I think there's now a better awareness of the needs of the schools and their financial situation.

"Obviously it's disappointing, but the school district will continue to function. We just have to sit down and continue to develop a budget for next year. I'm sure we're (administration and school board) going to have to have a discussion about meeting some of those needs without impacting the instructional program too much."

"The energy is still there; the energy will move forward," added CUSD board of trustees chairman Pat Condren Wednesday morning. "The (campaign) committee did a marvelous, wonderful job. With this momentum, something else will happen. No one's given up."

Even with a defeat the most likely outcome, the mood at the Measure A campaign reception Tuesday night at Carmel Valley's Quail Lodge was positive and upbeat. Supporters, in fact, had campaigned until the 11th hour, making phone calls on the day of the election and even setting up picket lines at key intersections.

"This whole campaign has created a synergy that has reached districtwide, from Big Sur to Cachagua," said John Lamb, chairman of Citizens for Carmel Schools, the group spearheading the campaign, at the reception Tuesday night. "Win or lose, a collective energy is there and has a potential to be harnessed. We have to make sure that energy is not left to sit on the shelf. The leadership is up to the board to tap into it."

As for the CUSD board of directors — all were in attendance at the reception Tuesday — their work is still ahead of them.

"I'm totally optimistic, but a little on the weary side," said Frank Pinney, board member and member of the campaign steering committee. "But time will show that we have good staying power. We're going to have to take some real hard looks at that (making program and personnel cuts), but the immediate needs can't be postponed any longer. We have to take creative leadership here."

Pinney said that the district would have to perform a "triage," or emergency treatment in the areas of transportation and structures and challenged those in the community who opposed the tax to help the district solve its problems without having again to resort to taxation.

Pinney also agreed that the campaign created some strong alliances and a commitment and momentum for the future.

"I don't think we lack support (in the community). I think we have a base of support here," he said. "We can tap that reserve to help form something that will last. We need to create a new approach without making cuts."

Supporters of Measure A all agreed that the defeat was not indicative of people's feelings on schools and education.

"I choose to believe it wasn't an anti-school vote, but an anti-tax vote," Piney said. "I think there's a subliminal untapped anger over taxation in general."

"There are other demands on their money," added Condren. "It's the mood of the times as well."

"I think the biggest issue is the fact that we needed a two-thirds majority," said Lamb, who agreed the district had to fight an uphill batle from the start. "It's ironic that 66 percent can support it, but 34 percent can stop it — that's really hard."

Long-awaited parking report recommends no increases

By DAVID LELAND

RATHER THAN working to expand Carmel's parking capacity, a long-awaited ad hoc parking committee report is recommending streamlining existing resources.

The committee, formed in 1988 and led by Alan Williams, presented a draft of its 160-plus page report to the Carmel City Council at its June 4 meeting.

"It was easy to see that we had a parking problem in this town," said Williams, speaking of the amount of time it took to formulate the report. "(But) it was tough to come to a consensus on how to solve it."

The council has scheduled a special meeting to receive public testimony for 5 p.m. Tuesday, July 16.

Williams stressed that the committee's desire is to seek maximum public input, and to give the document the same scrutiny as an environmental impact report.

"Before the council starts looking into the scope, they need public input," said Williams, adding that the Carmel Planning Commission should work in concert with the parking committee in receiving input.

Copies of the report are available for perusal in the library or at city hall.

Members of the parking committee include Williams, David Maradei, Yvonne McBride, Stephen Poohar, Bob Rodden, Merv Sutton and City Councilman Jim Wright.

Past members include Katy Curry, Robert Evans, Mel Kline and Barry Smith.

Specifically, the report said the the parking management plan should not attempt to increase the total visitor capacity. The primary benefits of the plan should be to:

- Reduce parking intrusion in R-1 neighborhoods.
- Improve resident and visitor access downtown.

At-risk youths do have places to turn to in times of need

By JOHN DETRO

AFTER 16 years of earthly experience, Nicole Burdick stepped off toward eternity. She jumped from the Sheraton Hotel and fell nine floors. Following normal procedures, Monterey Police Department turned this "clear-cut suicide" over to the Coroner's Office (under Sheriff Norm Hicks). Investigator Terry Wright says his final report will be ready Monday.

Neither child nor woman, Nicole died on June 1. Good God—collected facts just aren't enough. My daughter's at an out-of-state college and still seems young at 22. And Nicole at 16 felt that she'd had enough of what her world did or didn't offer. Rarely do newswriters say short prayers before beginning to dig out stories. This article was preceded by such a wish for mercies upon her. There was nothing more meaningful to do, and surely she deserved no less.

So far, Wright has determined that Nicole sometimes lived with her grandmother in Carmel. Her mother kept no permanent address, the sheriff's officer added, and Nicole had a history of depression.No mention of her father—none.

"Yes, hotel workers saw what happened," Terry said. "They really had no chance to help. She stepped over the railing of the observation platform right outside the restaurant. The manager did his best to stop her. Apparently she said she was going to jump. When the manager turned to call security, she went over. If he'd tried to grab and hold her, he might have gone over too."

Services were pending at Mission Mortuary. So—that's the full story? Not at all. Local educators spoke out in a frank effort to respect her memory and look at why young folks might feel as though they'd been cut adrift.

Nicole's last contact with classes came as a seventh-grader at Carmel Middle School.

"Her life's meaning might be that she sent out a warning about other kids," CMS Principal Karl Pallastrini said. "She didn't perform in a structured environment, so Nicole was at my office a lot. She'd do her work in here; I got to know her well. And she had a sweet side. And she was very candid about her life."

Pallastrini sighed and added: "She was an at-risk student. I'm not surprised (over her last earthly act). Nicole was on a track. She had a high potential for failure in life. The family unit was not capable of making the appropriate interventions. I'd guess it was no single event (that drove the teenager to end her life). It was a long, long pattern—the lack of success. I made recommendations to the family about certain community services. I just don't know if anything was done."

How might similarly troubled young folks be helped?

"Kids who are at-risk—well, once they're out of the school system, that risk doubles and the chance of success is diminished. Once they're out of the school system, there's nothing for those kids, unless they get into trouble with the law. There's a gap—and, as in Nicole's case, it can be deadly. I can't change society. I can say that Nicole never had a fair chance at life. There must be a better way to handle these kids who are outside the family and school structures, a step between, intervention prior to committing an offense. Maybe it's a matter of (service budget) money. They have nowhere to turn."

Principal Blake Fuessenich of Carmel Valley High School, alternative learning site, agreed. He was contacted because many of Nicole's friends attend classes there—and grief counseling has been offered to them over the past few days.

"When students leave school," Fuessenich said, "they're out of the loop. There's a real poverty of community services for them. I would recommend more residential treatment programs, more crisis counseling for those who can't pay. There's no predicting when another student might find herself or himself in Nicole's situation."

Investigator Wright also heads up a youth program for the Sheriff's Department. Asked what might have prevented Nicole's death, he thought for a long moment and then replied:

"So many people out there are willing to help. Agencies can help. Problem is, society's not prepared to recognize the (trouble) signs. Individuals must become much more aware of what these kids might be going through. Sometimes the follow-up is inadequate. We need more awareness—and more contact between parents and the agencies and probably the schools. I would guess that Nicole Burdick flew flags (displayed symptoms) all over the place. And, tragically, she fell through the cracks."

Council OKs water program, settles sand castle issue

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the June 4 Carmel City Council meeting include:

• Approved 4-1 (Councilman Bob Fischer dissenting), a measure that re-introduces a residential water distribution program.

However, the cost for the Del Mar spring, non-potable water, will now stand at $25. The service had been given for free in an effort to reduce Carmel's dependency on California-American Water Co. supplies.

City officials indicated to the council that it was costing $29,264 annually in staff time and equipment to carry out the program.

But the council found that conservation measures are still of prime importance, despite spring rains and the lifting of mandatory water rationing.

"The need is still there," Councilman Ken White said. "If we continue the program at the rate of our actual cost, those who want to take part in the program should be able to do that."

Under the terms of the program, which is run by the Carmel Public Works Dept., residents are allowed up to 350 gallons of water to used for landscaping their property.

• Agreed that the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects should seek a $1,500 grant from a peninsula foundation to meet their operating costs for the Great San Castle Contest.

According to White, who declined to name the foundation, "The money has been committed, all you need to do is write a letter."

There had been some concern from councilmembers that the annual event was being "commercialized" by the organizers drive to seek sponsors and advertising.

Craig Threshie, chairman for the event, told the council that his group needed the money to purchase trophies, food, and other expenses.

He added that they wanted to advertise one week prior to the contest, which has traditionally been relayed via word of mouth.

Threshie said he was agreeable to seeking money from a non-profit group. If the money is procured, the AIA will abandon independent sponsorship, he said.

'It was easy to see that we had a parking problem in this town, (but) it was tough to come to a consensus on how to solve it.'

— Alan Williams

• Continued through at least the end of the year a Carmel Taxi rides program, which is funded with local transportation development funds.

About 100 residents take part in this program, which gives seniors a discount on their fares.

• Unanimously remanded to the Carmel Planning Commission for further study a sliding scale to increase the floor area ratio for larger lots greater than 4,000 square feet.

• Continued to its July 2 meeting a report dealing with density bonus in the R-4 district.

The report concerns the planning commission's ability to grant up to 10 percent more floor area ratio to a project if it meets certain design specified criteria.

Traffic report

• Improve the economic strength of the downtown.

• Improve the visual aesthetics and circulation of the downtown.

"The city should not attempt to satisfy peak demand for parking," the report said. "The commitment of resources and design tradeoffs necessary to meet peak demand would be unacceptable.

Williams said his committee looked closely at Monterey, where numerous parking facilities have been constructed.

"A certain amount of congestion is a part of the city's character and probably serves as a natural limit to the number of vehicles that come to the city," according to the report.

The study adds that employers need to work with their employees in finding alternative places to park and carpooling.

However, the report is quite frank in its assessment of Carmel's parking problem.

"The committee has documented an imbalance between the demand for parking resources and the current supply of spaces," the report said. "Projections indicate that this imbalance will get worse over the next 10 to 20 years."

Mayor's nominations thwarted

ever, introduced the idea of revamping the nomination process to include input by the entire council.

"It's gotten quite out of hand," Brooks said. "The process that we have has not been followed; we have to do something to get back... more team spirit."

But the majority of public testimony said they viewed the proceedings as a usurping of the process and a travesty to those who wish to serve their community.

"I think tonight was not only a low point, but also one of the most interesting evenings I've seen," said Howard Nieman, Jr., a former planning commissioner "What we saw tonight was appalling; when elections come we will know how to vote."

Nieman charged that the council's majority had been unable to point to one fact why the nominees should not serve the community. It is unfair to pigeon-hole a person because of how councilmembers think they may lean on issues, he said.

"To second-guess a person's nature before they can build a record is wrong," he said, referring to the idea that a businessperson may lean in favor development. "People who make those (planning commission) decisions don't have to have a political agenda."

'The scene tonight was orchestrated by the mayor. The mayor knew full well it (nominations) would not be supported; it was done with political motivations.'

— James Wright

His sentiment was echoed by Olaf Dahlstrand, also a former planning commissioner.

"Tonight's performance was one of the worst I've ever seen," he said. "We are debasing the whole process."

Former Carmel Mayor Barney Laiolo also found the current nominating process to be acceptable.

"I don't see anything wrong with the mayor selecting a person," he said.

And while Brooks said she worried that D'Isidoro would have to step down too often from critical decisions because of his business interests, Carmel Planning Commission Chairperson Carla Ramsey, a realtor, said it is unfair to point to any occupation as more likely to have conflicts of interest.

"The record is unambiguous and shows that the commissioners do not step down for any one reason, nor because of any one profession," she said.

Later in the evening, Brooks herself was forced to step down from a council hearing that involved a parking-permit program on the street where she lives.

Grace told the council that she has acted with as much consideration for her peers as possible, and that her 35 accepted nominations during the past three years have acted responsibly.

She appeared livid at Tuesday's turn of events.

"For petty, petty reasons we have lost two good people," she said. "I'm regret having been so even-handed during the past three years."

Grace said she will bring two more nominations before the council during its July meeting.

No decision was reached regarding the nomination process, with the council continuing the matter until its Aug. 6 meeting.

YOUTH NOTES By Pat Lenz

Sneak previews

FORGET ABOUT spending time in movie theaters this summer , because the summer recreation brochure has arrived. Instead of watching Arnold destroy buildings kids can learn the fine art of self-defense in a Kenpo Karate class. To make sure kids don't have an unfair advantage over their parents a Kenpo class is now available for adults.

There is no need to watch Kevin Costner fly through the trees of Sherwood Forest as Robin Hood, when kids can fly through the air at the Carmel Youth Center in the Jazz Dance and Creative dance classes. Of course Kevin Costner in leotards might be too much for some young ladies to resist.

Why bother checking out the magic and special effects of The Rocketeer when you can create your own in some of the Arts and Crafts classes available this summer. One of the classes lets the kids learn magic tricks and create slimy strange edible creatures , boy won't dad be surprised when he sees what's for desert.

You can cancel that trip to the circus , because the best new class for the summer is a clowning class. Professional clown Pete Dragula, a close personal friend of mine even though he didn't invite me to his wedding, is the instructor. At the end of the class the kids will be putting on their own show.

The youth center has some fantastic trips planned. There is their annual trips to Great America, Raging Waters, Magic Mountain and the Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk ,on the sunny side of the bay. A special new trip this year is a horseback tour of Big Sur . Sorry parents but the youth center will be returning your kids at the end of the trips.

Of course the weight room will be open as usual through the summer to pump you up. There will now be special adult hours in the evenings so the older set can use some of the best equipment available on the peninsula.

The recreation department is providing some fantastic fitness workshops for adults particularly senior citizens. The workshops are on flexibility , pain relief and health and energy stress evaluation.

Legalized gambling comes to Carmel in the form of weekly bingo games for the 50 and older crowd, there are other programs available for the old in age but young at heart crowd, so check it out.

There are a lot more activities going on this summer through the recreation department and the youth center so pick up a copy of the brochure at the youth center at Fourth and Torres next to the police station.

The Carmel Youth Center as well as I lost a good friend recently. Phil Dacey was the man in the background who spent a lot of his time and energy helping the youth center on their fund-raisers. He was also involved in helping set up our new weight room and the surprise visit of Arnold Shwarzenegger to the grand opening. Phil took great joy in watching the kids workout in the weight room and after awhile he became a regular fixture in there .Even when he became ill he still found time to stop in to say hi and see if he could help with anything. Phil left a lot of friends and we will all miss him.

Take your heart to court.

Exercise serves you right.

DORIS DAY'S BEST FRIENDS

By Doris Day

Summer's almost here

...AND IT'S time to start thinking about vacations! Do your plans include your pet? If so, be aware that travel can put an extra strain on both of you. Even a simple thing like getting out of the car with your pet under control takes on serious significance at a busy roadside gas station.

Be certain that pets are welcome along our travel route. The auto club can provide information on hotels and motels that accept pets.

Your pet's travel kit should include food and water bowls, a can opener, treats, a favorite toy, a blanket, comb or brush. Take along a scooper and plastic bags or disposable "poop scoopers" (available at pet shops) to clean up after your pet all the time, and especially when travelling. A special travel tag should have the pet's name, your name, and a destination address and phone number, or that of a friend or relative.

Be certain to carry an up-to-date certificate of vaccination and health certificate. If your pet has a medical problem, you should carry with you a copy of his medical history to show a veterinarian if your pet becomes ill on the road.

Accustom you pet to being on a leash and always use it when travelling. Your pet can bolt into traffic or become lost in a strange place if not properly restrained.

If your dog or cat is not used to being in the car, start taking him on short trips right now to accustom him to motion and teach him how to behave in the car. Speak in a soft, calm voice to ease his anxiety. Take along a favorite blanket and teach him to lie down or sit quietly. Don't let your dog stick his head out the window. The wind can cause eye irritation and other problems.

Cats are often frightened of car travel, but they adjust quickly. As long as your windows are rolled up you might want to let your cat find his own place in the car. If he doesn't seem to feel comfortable with that, keep him in a rigid carrier (airline kennels, available at pet shops are best) where he will feel dozy and safe.

Next week: More summertime tips

MARY, CHUMMY and Al Norman, all looking chummy for the camera at the canine's new home.

PATIENT, LOVING HOME NEEDED!

"Calamity Jane" is a beautiful, 16-month old, spayed Whippet. She has special needs and we're looking for a very special home. Calamity has been with us almost a year. She was found roaming the streets and was taken to the SPCA. When she wasn't claimed by her owner, the lady who found her called to ask if we would take her in. Calamity has been placed twice — and returned twice. The reasons? Too much puppy — and she found house training a difficult subject! She's been fostered since her last return and I'm happy to say, I think she's got it!

Are you familiar with Whippets? We're looking for someone who will appreciate Calamity for her uniqueness. With her long legs and slender body, she likes to jump fences! She needs to be indoors most of the time and walked on a leash. She'd be a star in obedience class and besides educating her, it would help her bond to her new owner.

If you're up to a challenge, think about Calamity! She a darling dog, playful but protective, and she'd love to be your new Best Friend.

P.S. TO A HAPPY ENDING

Last month we told you about Gummy (now Chummy!) who has a new home with Mary and Al Norman. At long last, here's a picture of chummy with his new Mom and Dad. He's really living the good life these days, enjoying long walks on the beach, rides in the car, and even a trip to Morro Bay. Chummy's "Top Dog" now and we wouldn't be happier for him!

Bye for now - see you next week!

tion of the Flanders Mansion — headquarters of the group, and reconstruction of the first Murphy house.

According to Newell, the video documentary has tapped "an artesian well (of memories). We hope to interview everyone over time."

The team predicts that the video will be completed toward the end of this year. Donors are still sought — of both money and or/vintage movie footage. According to Carmel Heritage, all donors will receive credit on the video.

"We have been working on this project about three years," Newell said. "It has come into fruition in the last month; we've just done the first phase of our shooting. It's intended to be objective and forthright and tasteful, so that the community can understand its origins and be prepared to understand its future."

Anyone wishing to contribute to this "Video History Documentary of Carmel-by-the-Sea" can do so by contacting Carmel Heritage at P.O. Box 701, Carmel, CA 93921, or telephone 624-4447.

City parking permits still available

THE CITY of Carmel-by-the-Sea Resident Parking Permits for Carmel residents and residential property owners are available at the Carmel police station.

The permits, which are good for the calendar year 1991, authorize holders extended parking ONLY in the following time zones:

1. Two hours in parking spaces designated for one hour.
2. Sixty minutes in parking spaces designated for 30 minutes.
3. In residential areas designated preferential resident parking.
4. Parking on Scenic Road after sunset.

In order to receive a permit, you must meet the following criteria:

1. Be the registered owner of the vehicle.
2. Be a resident or own residential property within the city limits of Carmel.
3. Bring some type of proof indicating you are a resident or own residential property within the city limits.
4. Pay $4 for the permit.

Permits are available at the Carmel Police Department, corner of Fourth and Junipero between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Addressing the question

DO YOU know where you live? In an emergency, could you tell someone else, clearly?

These questions are not asked facetiously. The value of being able to state the exact location of homes in the city of Carmel, which do not have street addresses, was born out once again recently. The first report that reached the Carmel Police Department was of a shot fired at the corner of Casanova and 10th. But the actual incident was at Monte Verde and 10th.

In this instance (termed a domestic disturbance), no harm was done because of the slight delay in the arrival of police officers at the right location; and no one was hurt. But another time... An example: My former address in the city was "Casanova Street, two southeast of 11th." Or: "the east side of Casanova, two south of 11th." Either way, it's all there.

It's a good idea to have that information written out and left by the phone for guests or workers at the house. In an emergency, it is all too easy to get confused.

THE TRIPLET stroller that Carmelites Karen and Bruce Meyer found through a newspaper ad is now in frequent use: the couple became the parents of twins on April 30! With Caitlin, now 18 months old, that does make three - a happy crowd. The new arrivals are a boy - Jordon Thomas - and a girl - Kendall Lynn. Proud mother Karen said, "There was a lot of baby!" And so there was: Jordan at 8 lbs. 3 oz. and Kendall at 6-11. Congratulations to the parents (Bruce is a shift commander with the Carmel Fire Department) and happy strolling!

SO YOU thought you had heard the last of the garage sale tales? Never fear, there will always be another one!

This time it was during a sale in a Carmel Point home. A woman shopper approached the hostess and said, "I want to buy your outfit!" Taken aback, the hostess stammered something like "You could buy it at Macy's," but the would-be buyer persisted. "No," she insisted, "I want that blouse and pants - just what you have on." Insisting got her nowhere, however - when I left the scene, the hostess was still wearing the blouse on her back, and the tailored pants.

SPLENDID SENIOR

"I can't believe I did all those things!" Virginia Burk has reason to be amazed, as I found out during my interview with her in her pleasant, antique-filled home on Mission Street.

Altrusa, a service club, has just made her an honorary member, not only because of what she has done but also because of what she is still doing. There is a special connection, because Altrusa (an organization of professional women and business owners) began in Tennessee, and it was in Tennessee that Virginia Burk - at the astonishing age of 17 - became the first woman pharmacist in that state.

She says that she drifted into that role because she had worked in her stepfather's drug store. But achieving that significant goal wasn't enough for this woman, who said, "I've always been a student." She decided to round out her education with a liberal arts degree, taking courses at George Washington University in psychology, literature, political science and French. To this day, she is still a student. "I want to do Gentrain at MPC!" she said, her eyes lighting up.

For many years she has been involved with the International Student Committee at MPC, and with the Friends of MIIS. How did she get from Tennessee to Carmel?

Self-supporting since she was 18, Virginia saved enough to indulge another pleasure: travel . She started a western trek in southern California, made her way to Yosemite and then "fell in love with" Northern California. Through a friend, she met a man who offered her a job with a pharmacy in Monterey .

"I had heard of Pebble Beach," Virginia said, "and I was a golfer at the time, so naturally I was attracted." The attraction almost faded when she arrived on the peninsula on a Sunday afternoon: "It was very foggy, and there was a strong fishy smell, " she recalls. "I landed in a little hotel on Alvarado Street and if there had been a train available, I might not have stayed ! "

But the next day the fog had lifted and her acquaintance, Benjamin Wright, introduced her to Carmel. "I was taken with it, " she said, smiling at her own understatement. "There was an opening for a manager of the Pacific Pharmacy in Carmel and I convinced Ben that my experience with my stepfather's store qualified me." She moved into the Pine Inn ("fun!") and six months later when the store was for sale, she bought it "for some ridiculous sum. "

The next major event in Virginia's life was meeting Peter Burk, a handsome Englishman who was a writer, actor and production manager of a movie studio in Los Angeles. He also had a place at Big Sur. Their first date was at Garrapata Beach on a Sunday and on the following Thursday, Peter proposed. Although she had fallen in love with him when she had first seen him, Virginia waited a year to get to know him better; then they married. The newlyweds settled in a little house near Betty Greene's stables at Junipero and Ocean.

It was a perfect match: Peter was a fine businessman, so he took over that end of the drug store's activity. He was creative too - some of the drawers he designed are still in use. While working together, and raising two daughters, the couple also found time for travel. On one noteworthy trip to Europe in 1959 they took the girls with them, and stayed for a year! One daughter remained in Spain to attend the University of Madrid, and the other became a model in London.

There have been many other trips: to the Far East, the Middle East, and India, where Virginia saw students she knew from her work with the International Students Committee. She also went to professional meetings in such places as Budapest, Australia, and Argentina (where she spoke to 10,000 physicians about the role of the pharmacist).

When she bought the drug store (renamed then and still the Carmel Drug Store), Virginia worked long hours, sometimes from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. "I took naps on a cot in back of the store," she said, laughing at the recollection. "But later - while the girls were growing up - I worked part-time."

During World War II, Virginia was active in the Carmel and Monterey USOs, and was responsible for getting "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell to come to the local USO at Thanksgiving time; she was "on and off" the board of the Family Service Agency in the '50s and '60s; on the budget committee of United Way, among other things.

In 1974, Peter Burk died. Virginia showed me a picture of a movie-star-handsome man, her pride and love still obvious. His death did not slow Virginia for long; she kept working and kept traveling and kept active in student and community concerns.

Today, Virginia Burk is still an active member of the International Students Committee and of two MIIS boards. She still travels, although as with other activities, she must be more selective about that. Her greatest impetus for travel these days comes from opportunities to be with her two daughters, and to share their family events: a grandchild's wedding, the expected birth of her second great-grandchild next month.

She belongs to the World Affair's Council, and is on the board of the Abalone Club. She remains connected with "her" drug store, although she sold the business (but not the property), to Greg Benedict in 1970. Greg, who had worked with her for many years, and others at the store "look out for me," Virginia said. "They bring my mail, give me a ride up the hill, whatever else I need." But she still loves to walk around town and will turn down offers of a ride when the steep Mission Street hill is not involved.

What of the future for Virginia Burk? She did not care to tell me her exact age, but when I told her mine, she pooh-poohed it. "Oh, I'm older than THAT!" She has always had a feeling for adventure, she said, and age has scarcely modified that. Her ever-expanding family is reason enough, she feels, to remain active.

But going on, and continuing to grow and serve, is part of her philosophy. She expressed it in these favorite lines of poetry: "Let me live in my house by the side of the road, And be a friend of man." We agreed that I would interview Virginia again on the occasion of her 100th birthday, whenever that is.

There are ways to stop abuse

Across the United States a woman is physically abused every 15 seconds. The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula offers help to women who feel trapped in a potentially harmful situation through counseling, a 24-hour crisis line and a shelter for battered women and their children.

If you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship, let them know there is a way out.

Contact the YWCA Domestic Violence Crisis Line at 372-6300.

Assist the women's shelter

Do you feel domestic violence is a problem? Would you like to do something to help? Do you have three hours per week to volunteer?

If you answered "yes" to these questions, the YWCA Women's Shelter needs you. For more information, call Chris Hoffman, crisis line director, at 372-6300.

Divorced women meet at YWCA

Women who are recently divorced or who are in the process of getting a divorce share many of the same concerns. The divorced women's support group is designed to meet the needs of women who seek assistance in releasing hurts from the past, restoring self-esteem, refocusing on new goals and restructuring and revitalizing their lives.

The group begins June 11 and will meet 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays for 10 weeks. Space is limited. Meetings will take place at the YWCA, 801 Lighthouse Ave. For more information or to reserve space in the group, call 649-0834.

Rediscovering Santa Barbara

THERE IS good news coming from Santa Barbara, which is good reason for going there this summer.

First, the "merge" is on.

Second, there's a 1990s restaurant Renaissance underway.

And third, Santa Barbara's got it all; weather, setting, history, architecture, beaches, wine, food and people. Even a concours. Enough to sing about.

That's hard praise to take, coming from the Monterey Peninsula, which also likes to think it has it all. Unfortunately, there is no exclusive franchise on California coastal destinations.

Anyone who has tried to traverse Highway 101 south through Santa Barbara knows it hasn't always been rosy for this southern exposure town, even if the sun does come out nearly every morning and the national press reported that its beaches are among the best in the U.S.

There are those stop lights on the freeway. Twenty-seven years they've been there. Not to mention that for the last there and a half years State Street—Santa Barbara's main artery connecting the downtown shopping district to the beach—has been closed.

Well, get out the party hats because all that is about to end.

The "merge" is on. Construction of an underpass for pedestrians and cars is about completed, and on June 30 the barriers came down. It wasn't exactly the fall of the Berlin Wall, but reuniting a divided Santa Barbara is a significant celebration and a symbol that the townsfolk work together—not against each other.

"Santa Barbara is a tourist town, but it's merged in a different way," says Laurel Margerum, a Monterey Peninsula transplant. "The restaurants, as an example, appeal to the community and the tourist."

She speaks from experience. margeum, her husband Doug and brother-in-law Hugh, are co-owners of the Wine Cask, considered by Wine and Food Companion to be one of the hot, new restaurants in the U.S. (although they've been in business at the same location for 10 years).

Another example of the town's pulling together is the attention being given to its older district. This is a restoration-rebuilding project jointly promoted and supported by the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce and the "Downtown Organization." Both are under one executive directorship.

The mutual back-scratching doesn't stop there, as Steve Cushman, director for the chamber and the "Downtown Organization," explain:

"We cross-market our wine country and Solvang to keep people in town," he said. "There are over 4,000 hotel rooms along our south coast and we tell our visitors to take a day-long trip and then come back to Santa Barbara."

Visitors returning to Santa Barbara will see the city is undergoing considerable change, which interesting enough does not tarnish its historic lineage, architectural flavor or downtown merchant mix. Shopping patterns are shifting, though, and for visitors looking for variety that's just more good news.

A recent visit to this "cousin" four hours south revealed Santa Barbara is rebounding from the days when it was nearly impossible to get from downtown to up town.

Those days are over. There's a life that permeates the town, an energy that's pulling it together. No separatists, here.

Check it out.

FOOTNOTES TO TRAVEL BY

More on the Wine Cask: This is a wine bar and restaurant with retail out front and a super restored dining room and patio in the back. The food is regional Santa Barbara, meaning unique seafoods and, of course, local wines. Try the Catalan-style Santa Barbara steamed mussels as an appetizer.

If there's a suggestion of careful preparedness to the cooking it's because Chef Jeff Vinion, 31, trained at Masa's.

Anyone heading for Santa Barbara should also stop for some casual eating at La Super-Rica. This place, painted in Southern California surfer colors, looks like an old walk-up hamburger stand salvaged from the 1950s, but the Mexican food is terrific and atypical.

There are 20 choices on the menu board. Try the Taco de Adobado (charbroiled strips of marinated pork steak served on two fresh homemade corn tortillas) or the Pechuga Suiza (grilled chicken breast with melted cheese between yes—two homemade corn tortillas.

Latest chapter on the Arizona Biltmore: One star down from its usual Mobil-Five, the Biltmore closed May 28 for a $20 million renovation. Managed by Westin, it expects to reopen Sept. 10. We'll wait and see.

Update on the Mandarin Oriental San Francisco: Since our last report only good things have happened to its ratings. Institutional Investor in its annual survey ranked it the 8th best in North America, Conde Nast Travel calls the Mandarin the 15th best in the world, and Business Traveller (UK) says its reader survey rates this hotel as the seventh best new hotel in the world.

A timely offering from the Mandarin: Participating with Napa Valley's Auberge du Soleil, the two hotels are joining in a weekend-week day package called "Bay Lights to Vineyard Sights." Regardless of the slogan, it's a deal worth discussing with a travel agent.

Seniors program needs participants

IN SEPTEMBER 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Telephone calls are made daily by a volunteer beginning at 9:30 a.m. No participant is ever restricted to their home; they need only contact the police department in advance if they plan to be away during the time the calls are placed to avoid any confusion. If someone fails to answer their telephone, a patrol unit is sent by to conduct a welfare check at the residence.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this program should contact Desk Officer Cathy Dampier at Carmel Police Department, 624-6403.

Padre football coach picked to lead peninsula all-stars

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL PADRES head football coach Craig Johnston has been chosen to coach 28 graduating peninsula gridiron stars in this year's Salinas Jaycees Central Coast High School All-Star Football Game.

The annual game, scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, July 26, at Salinas High School Stadium, pits players from local schools against their counterparts in the Salinas Valley.

"I consider it a real honor to be able to work with this kind group," said Johnston, who took over the CHS football program in April of 1989. "It will be fun."

Representing CHS in the competition are quarterback Mario Bertolucci; wide receiver/defensive back George MaCaluso; wide receiver/defensive back Steve Watts; offensive lineman Forest Aldrich; and linebacker Dan Kurz.

Sporting a 5-3-1 record for last season, Johnston is credited by most observers as being instrumental in turning the team's attitude around — when he took over as head coach the team had lost 19 straight games.

"This (being named to all-star game), says a lot for our program," says Johnston, who quarterbacked his St. Paul's High School team in Santa Fe Springs to a 51-3 record, and led the Cal Poly SLO football squad to a Division II national title in 1980.

When all-star practice begins at Monterey Peninsula College this July, Johnston will be aided by his Padres coaching staff: Mark Spindler, defensive line; Bill Swift, offensive line; Matteo MaCaluso, running backs/linebackers; and Mike Kelly, receivers/defensive backs/kicking team.

While Johnston said that he will stick to basic formations and plays, spectators should expect the unexpected.

"In one sense we have to keep it (game plan) simple," said Johnston, adding that CHS will also be represented by a bevy of cheerleaders. "But just by the players' athletic abilities, big plays are going to happen."

Johnston credits the game for allowing students to transcend traditional rivalries.

"You can form some real good friendships in two weeks of practice," said Johnston, adding that there are no outside incentives to push the students. "They get the satisfaction that they were on the all-star team."

However, the deep well of peninsula talent makes the team's roster that much more coveted.

"This year's team should be real honored to make it," Johnston said. "We (peninsula) have some good athletes."

Applicants sought for assessment appeals board

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seeking a qualified applicant to serve on the Monterey County Assessment Appeals Board.

The successful applicant must have a minimum of five years professional experience in the State of California as one of the following:

1. A certified Public Accountant or Public Accountant
2. A licensed real estate broker
3. An attorney
4. A property appraiser accredited by a nationally recognized professional organization, or a person who the nominating member of the board of supervisors has reason to believe is possessed of competent knowledge of property appraisal and taxation.

The Assessment Appeals Board meets two days each month in Salinas for a period of approximately nine months per year, September through May.

Persons who are interested and reside in the 5th District are encouraged to send a letter stating their qualifications and desire to serve, including their home address and daytime telephone number to the office of Strasser Kauffman, 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 001, Monterey, CA 93940.

Monterey County's 5th District includes the Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Cachagua, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur, and the Toro Area of the County.

2016 Committee to meet June 10

CARMEL'S 2016 Committee will hold a meeting to get public input on Carmel residents' dreams — and nightmares — of Carmel's future at 7 p.m. Monday, June 10 at Carpenter Hall at Sunset Center.

The Carmel City Council established the 15-member committee last year to explore the needs and desires of the community and to identify the ideas, goals, and dreams of the future of the city.

Meetings have already been held in which the committee has outlined some of the recent trends and direction of the city and its residents in order to determine what can and should be achieved in the city and how to improve the quality of life in the future.

Those who cannot attend are encouraged to put their ideas, dreams, and nightmares of Carmel in the year 2016 in writing and mail to: Carmel 2016, Box CC, Carmel, CA 93921.

Visiting students offer diverse opinions on CHS

By RACHAEL SMOLEN

FOR THE most part, students from foreign lands have enjoyed their year at CHS. However, the change did require some adjustment.

"I felt pretty welcome her," says Norwegian, Siri Stie. "I was homesick in the beginning. I thought of my friends and wrote many letters. Now, I enjoy it a lot."

CHS currently has 31 foreign students. Some are here on exchange programs such as AFS and Rotary Club, while others are living in the area with their parents or family friends.

One such student is Odile Garcia. "I graduated in Spain and had to decide on a major and wasn't sure if I wanted to do geography," she explains, "so I decided to take the year off."

She lives in town with friends of her parents. "At the beginning I wasn't very happy," she adds. "I thought everybody was so fake. I now know it is like everywhere. There are bad and good people, some I like, some I don't."

Erika Westman, from Sweden, is living in the states with her family. "We live here for two years. My dad works with the Naval Post-Graduate School and my mother is here also." After improving her language skills, Westman says she has begun to enjoy living America. However, "my dad will graduate and I will go home."

Federico Casagni, with AFS, has mixed feelings about returning to Italy. "I love it. It is a very comfortable atmosphere."

"I wouldn't want to live here, but I do like it," says Matti Fredriksson who is surprised at the cool reception he has received in this country. "In Finland,m they say Americans are friendly, but here I notice it is not true."

Visiting from Switzerland, Serge Urech believes, "People are always polite but you never know whether they are really friends."

All the students had there share of culture shock. "We have no cheerleaders, no school spirit!" says Stie, adding that the U.S. is a "doing society." "They are always doing something. 'What are we going to do?'"

"At Christmas, I am used to candles. The light of the candle is so peaceful and quiet, but here the tree lights are like disco," explains Urech.

Other surprises include the large amount of homework, the variety of ethnic groups, and the fact California is not always incredibly hot and sunny..

Carl Grubbstrom adds, "I thought it would be more fun, things would happen, but it doesn't. It is OK, but Sweden is a bit more civilized."

It's not easy being a 'stranger' at Carmel High School

By SERGE URECH

A YEAR ago, I had no clue what it meant to be a foreigner in a country, thousands of miles away from one's birthplace. Nonetheless, I decided to participate in an exchange program. I was lucky enough to get accepted, and eventually ended up in one of the most beautiful cities I've ever seen; I was going to live for an entire year in Carmel.

Well, during my stay there have been quite a few ups and downs. Sometimes people made fun of exchangees or they simply didn't accept "strangers".

An exchange student usually doesn't have a car and therefore he or she has to ask others for rides. This isn't only very inconvenient, it's just not the way to make friendships.

How can one make new friends, especially when the person doesn't speak the language well, is unfamiliar with the local customs, and has limited mobility?

This is a major problem, that an exchangee has to know how to manage. I think it's quite a daily challenge. I was fortunate enough having somebody who introduced me in the American school system and in the various American customs. This was a tremendous help!

Now, at the end of my stay in the United States I feel like grew in many different ways. Less physically than in terms of a broadened horizon.

Although my suitcases didn't arrive as fast as I did, I was impressed how fast one can travel from one continent to another. It really shows me how easy it has become to travel around the world regardless of continents and nations. We are definitely moving closer to each other, no matter how far away we live.

That's why understanding and acceptance of different points of views, of heterogeneous interests, as well as the many cultures have become more important than ever before. This is one of the reasons why I took advantage of the unique opportunity to live abroad for a certain period of time.

In my opinion, no one can ignore the rest of the world when it seems impossible to live without it. Or in other words, there's no such thing as absolute knowledge. One has to keep that in mind when watching the news, for instance, because the vast majority of all misunderstandings and misconceptions are caused by ignorance, or one sided reporting.

Figuratively, every single one of us wears glasses and sees the world more or less in a certain shade, that doesn't necessarily imply that it has to be like that.

I've had a hard time to understand that there's sometimes no "right" or "wrong". But on this exchange I had to get this point to be able to accept a different opinion rather than just mine.

It certainly is an enrichment to discover how similar we all are! Don't get me wrong, but because of that I've never liked the term "world-leader", since there's no (divine) right that declares a specific nation as superior, no matter in what sense, and postulates it as the "world-leader", whatsoever.

On account of that, I'm very critical of any kind of expressions implying a qualitative valuation of men.

With that unusual philosophy (I consider myself as something as cruel as an humanistic cosmopolitan and it's not over yet), I occasionally confused or even bored my classmates to death. I'm very sorry about that, but I also want to say a very special thank you to all my friends. They were just fabulous.

I also want to thank to all my teachers and staff members at CHS, especially Anne Berry, John Durein, Fletch, Peter Lyon, and Bob Swartz.

Last, but not least I want to recognize my two (that's the way it's set up in the exchange program) host families and the Monterey Peninsula Sunrise Rotary Club for their incredible patience with me.

Even though I haven't gotten Clint Eastwood's signature, I've had my best time of my life here in the United States of America, simply because it is a great nation.

Although, I have now a clearer picture of what it means to be an exchange student, I'd do it again and would become once more a strange "stranger".

Good-bye, Carmel.

Day on the Green a smashing success story

By ALEX FREMIER

AFTER A few problems, "Day on the Green" was a success. On Friday, May 24, the ASB and cafeteria collaborated to make "Day on the Green."

Kay Anderson, the originator of "Day on the Green," proposed the idea to ASB at one of its morning meetings to have a tailgate party during lunch. The idea was brain stormed and changed.

Hamburgers with a pack lunch all for $2. "Still Time," a band from CHS, also played during the extended lunch. All this took place on the upper field, were many students gathered on the lawn and relaxed.

The band "Still Time" was asked to play after they had been seen in the recent talent show.

The food was provided by the cafeteria and the ASB prepared the food. All the money earned went to the cafeteria to pay it back for the loses and for their money spent for the food.

Many students liked it including Jennifer Cowles, who says, "It gave the students time to kick back. Even though the people were in separate groups, they were altogether."

The ASB plans to do more of these same activities in the future. They say next time they might have games being played like tug-or-war, frisbee or hacky sack.

Peterson Conway, a student in the ASB, believes that the school has to have spirit and no better way to support spirit than through school functions.

"These (Day on the Green) are the activities that ASB should be promoting," says Conway.

There were only two problems on "Day on the Green."

The seniors were on their way back from Disneyland so they were not here to enjoy the day. The other problem was that the band, while they were playing their first song, blew a fuse. It took a couple of minutes to fix the problem.

Brain Sarkin, the drummer in the band, felt that the wait threw the band off. Sarkin also felt that it would be better if the seniors were there.

"'Day on the Green' was a great idea which was planned and done very well," says Sarkin.

Five Padre gridiron standouts named to play in all-star game

By LANCE THOMPSON

ON FRIDAY, July 26, at Salinas High seven schools from the area will compete as the west against seven schools from the east central coast the 1991 Central Coast High School All Star Football Game.

Coach Craig Johnston and his varsity coaching staff of Mike Kelly, Mark Spindler, Matteo Macaluso, and Bill Swift have been chosen to coach the west team, which consists of 28 all-star seniors from North County, Watsonville, Pacific Grove, Robert Louis Stevenson, Monterey, Seaside and, of course, Carmel.

The East team is coached by Tyrone Edgerton of North Salinas.

Padre seniors Forest Aldrich, Dan Kurz, Mario Bertilucci, George Macaluso, and Steve Watts will be playing for the west. "It's to bad I couldn't choose more Carmel players," says Johnston, whose varsity team had a winning record of 5-3-1.

The padre seniors are honored by the selection.

The teams are allowed 10 days of practice that Coach Johnston sees as simply a time to get plays down.

"I expect these players to already have the technique and drills down," says the coach.

It was more than chance that go the five padres to the all-star game this year.

"Dedication and hard work got us to where we are today.," said starting quarter back Mario Bertilucci.

Senior Steve Watts sees the game as a learning experience as well as fun.

"Playing with better athletes will help us get ready to play at the college level," says Watts who will be seeing time as both defensive back and wide receiver

The five seniors seem confident in the 1991 west all-star team and Bertilucci sums it up by saying, "We're the best in the West."

Students name Cristin Clack as new ASB President for next year

By BRIAN GRISIN

OUT OF 20 ASB positions on the ballot, 14 candidates ran unopposed in the May 24 school election.

Cristin Clack is the new ASB President for Fall 1991. "Cristin Clack is a great leader and will benefit the ASB," said Karena Shannon, the new ASB Secretary.

The new ASB Vice President is Kelley Starett.

Karena Shannon will take over as ASB Secretary. "I plan to help as much as I can in ASB because it is something I enjoy," says Shannon. She wants to help plan events like the Winter Ball and another Day on the Green.

John Pak, the new ASB Treasurer, says that he wants to reduce the expensive cost of senior graduation by creating fund-raisers.

Pep Commissioners Lee Walton and Tobin Leslie plan "to make the school as fun as it can be." They also state that "we have a great school with supreme athletes and athletic teams and our goal is to recognize them and to get more school involvement." They plan to do more things like lunchtime activities.

Jennifer Cowles takes the position of Social Commissioner.

Joelle Colliard will be the new Publicity Chairman. She plans things like putting up a Bulletin Board with ASB news, events and other student interests. She also plans to have a second period class representative which will be elected by the class which will inform the class on what is happening in ASB. "My job is to make students more aware and more involved."

The new Athletic Commissioner will be Chris Cannon. He plans to have activities at break and lunch. He wants to have class competition in things like softball.

The election also consisted of a vote on the bell system which 50 percent of the voters wanted the no-bell system to the 37 percent who wanted bells five minutes before first, third, and fifth periods. Thirteen percent wanted to bring back the bells for good.

In the class of 1992, David Beerman will be the new class President alongside Shelley Gesicki as Vice President, Brain Kingsley as Secretary and Vanessa Gulla as Treasurer.

With no uncontested races, Aryn Harris became the new President of the class of 1993 with Lance Thompson as Vice President, Gillian Brown as Secretary and Aimee Reeder becoming their new Treasurer.

The elections of the class of 1994 were Jim Rice taking the position of class president, Amy as Vice President, Brittany Struve Secretary and Madeleine Carr as Treasurer.

David Beerman and Gillian Brown will attend a seminar over the summer to improve their leadership skills to benefit the school.

Recent survey offers hope for CHS students suffering from boredom

By AMY DOWD

"THERE'S NOTHING to do in Carmel," are words often uttered by CHS students.

But thanks to a recent survey by the Health Advisory Committee, those feelings of boredom could soon change.

"We want kids to be able to comfortably hang out in Carmel without being harassed," said CHS counselor Kay Anderson.

The committee, made up of students, parents and faculty, created a survey designed to help them better understand what students find lacking in their weekend activities.

The survey contained five categories in which students could pick which they would most enjoy participating in.

The results of the poll were not based upon the most popular category, but rather the students own ideas.

here are partial results of the survey:

- Faculty/student sporting events
- Open gym on Friday night
- All night dances in the gym
- Dance contests
- Discount priced tickets from local theaters
- Local bands either from the school or the community performing at Laguna Seca
- Surfing contests within the school, or between other schools (RLS, P.G.)
- Beach BBQ
- Beach volleyball games
- Annual camping/backpacking trips

"We want to offer kids a place to relax, listen to music, and get to know each other," Anderson says. "We want o offer them an alternative to drinking while still enjoying themselves."

Anderson also adds she feels it is wrong for adults to try and plan student activities. It should be students ideas, therefore the students could be more involved.

Anderson and HAC members are not the only people involved in helping students. Carmel City Council and the Carmel Youth Center are also aware of this problem.

For instance, the Carmel Youth Center's plans for summer are to stay open late and provide high school kids with a variety of entertainment activities.

Carmel City Councilwoman Barbara Brooks agrees that there needs to be more youth activities in Carmel. Her ideas involve opening a soda shop or a Friday night movie showing at CYC.

"I would love to see more kids in town," says Brooks, "although Carmel is not a town for nightlife." Brooks sympathizes with students but adds that there is not much offered for adults in Carmel either.

CHS students have mixed feelings about whether or not the survey will benefit the town's nightlife.

"If the activity was socially accepted, more people would go," said CHS sophomore Jen D'Atillio, referring to the idea that students define what's "cool."

Joint CHS-Caltrans efforts yields effective results at Ocean Avenue

By HOLLY NORRIS

THANKS TO the cooperation of Caltrans and Associated Student Body, traffic is moving freely after school at the intersection of Ocean Avenue and Highway 1.

"It made sense to change the light because there was more traffic leaving CHS than there was going the opposite direction," says Caltrans spokesperson Abe Delgado, whose agency made the change May 9.

In the past the green light on Ocean lasted 30 seconds, while traffic on Highway 1 was lasting 70 seconds. With this timing, the green light was not allowing enough time for cars to get out of the parking lot of CHS, increasing the risk of an accident.

According to CHP Accident Investigation Officer, Steve Siebert,, during 1990, within 20 feet, north or south of Ocean Avenue, there was 15 accidents, only seven at which were injuries.

So far in the year 1991, there has only been four accidents.

He added that the most common cause for accidents were following to closely or traveling at a high rate of speed. At least 80 percent of these accidents were rear enders.

The lights change from 2:15-2:30 p.m., after school each day. Now the lights run on Ocean, for 40 seconds, and 50 seconds, on Highway 1.

Jennifer Cowles, a student at CHS is responsible for most of the work needed to complete this project. According to Cowles, the main cause for this was that it was taking too much time to clear out the parking lot after school.

"It took about 10 minutes each day just to get out of the parking lot," says Cowles.

According to Delgado, the intersection is working much better and it looks like the traffic on Highway 1 is not being hurt, after reviewing the lights on Wednesday, May 29.

According to Chad Lincoln, the school's concern was that the cars were racing to get through the light which made it a hazard for the pedestrians and to the cars around them.

During the summer the lights will be changed back to their regular time due to the traffic build up on Highway 1, and tourist traffic exiting Carmel.

Spouse-teachers tell Sandpiper that situation has ups and downs

By KELLI CAYLOR

MARRIED COUPLES teaching at CHS have the opportunity to experience both the good and bad aspects of having a spouse in the workplace.

Although most teachers are married, it is, however, quite unusual for two instructors in the same school to be married to each other. At CHS, two couples have have combined teaching and marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis have been married to each other during the almost 29 years in which they have taught together. However, this is the first year they have both worked at CHS.

Being on the same teaching staff often involves patience, they say.

"We both understand the good things and the difficult things," said math teacher Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis has been teaching at CHS since 1972, but he took three years off to teach in different countries during that time. This is Mrs. Lewis' first year at CHS, although she has taught before.

They both like the company of each other at school.

"It's fun and nice because we know what's going on," said Mrs. Lewis.

"We can joke with one another," added Mr. Lewis.

Besides, they say, having identical careers provides a universal thread.

"The experience is common because we're both teachers," said Mrs. Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh have been married for about 20 years. Ten out of the 18 years Mr. Walsh has been working at CHS, Mrs. Walsh has been here, too.

They maintain that their working relationship is no different from any other teacher.

"She is just like any other teacher at school," said Mr. Walsh.

They have to separate their work from their home life.

"There is the school relationship, and the home relationship," said Mrs. Walsh.

It is very unusual for married teachers to be in the same department.

"Since I'm the English Department Chairman, technically I am her boss," said Mr. Walsh.

It is not always good to work at the same place as your spouse.

"We take our work home with us sometimes," said Mr. Walsh.

Sandpiper's history proves to be a rich and interesting saga

By GESA REIMNITZ

THERE'S MORE to the CHS Sandpiper than most people would imagine.

The Sandpiper started some time in the 1940s, after CHS got on its feet. The school newspaper has lasted through the years, but not without it's fair share of changes.

Back in the '40s, the CHS paper was called The Padre, and lasted up until the summer of 1964. Mr. Lyon, a teacher at CHS who also went to school here, called The Padre a "gossipy paper."

Despite the fact that it was "gossipy," this paper had all the elements of a real newspaper, and was run completely by the students with the help of an adult advisor.

According to Pat Ricketts Sippel, editor of The Padre, in 1954 and '55, Lloyd Miller, a former business teacher at CHS, was the advisor for this paper through the '50s, and mid-60s, as well as Boss Rainer, who was the advisor for two years.

The Padre wasn't printed down at The Pine Cone at this time ,nor was it mimeographed. The school paper was printed at a print shop in Carmel and then later was moved to be printed in Monterey. The Padre also had a weekly budget which paid for printing and so forth, which has disappeared over the years.

Back in the '50s and '60s, the awareness of issues was much different than it is today. Ricketts stated that, most of the paper was only gossip, such as a column that contained information about the couple of the week, or who got a new car that week, and so on. "They were innocent times," says Ricketts. "Today the students are more socially conscious, which is a big plus; it's great."

In the fall of 1964, the Padre was changed to The Sandpiper, but was still run by CHS students, and was advised by Mr. LeValley, a former CHS teacher. During this time, the CHS Sandpiper was an award-winning newspaper.

In 1968, Jack Savage took over as adviser, and a few things changed.

After the first year of Savage's presence, the school newspaper was still an "All-American Newspaper," but dropped out of the competition due to a school —funded printing press, which took time to learn how to work.

Savage had The Sandpiper between five and six years. During that time, the CHS paper became almost completely self-supportive by selling advertisement, which enabled The Sandpiper to come out every two weeks, as it does at present day.

In 1973, Bob Walch took over the school newspaper and got it back on track to being an award-winning paper. Jack Savage wasn't cut out of the picture though, for he was head of printing, which is now the photography room at CHS.

The printing press was used for 10 years until it went out of date due to advancing technology. "It really took a beating," says Savage.

Walch had the paper for five years and then was taken over again by Savage for about two years, according to. Walch.

Chad Lincoln took over the paper in '87-'88.

When Lincoln took over, the paper was more or less killed. There was now a journalist class at CHS, and the students term project was to produce the school paper, which was two or three times a year.

Now that David Leland has taken over The Sandpiper , and that the Pine Cone has donated space in its issues every other week, it has been revived, and has become a great success among the students and the community.

Lunchtime dance programs in offing

By LAURA TUGWELL

ON THURSDAY, May 23,the CHS Dance Co. put on a lunchtime performance and the student turnout was impressive. When I spoke with Laura Akkard, the CHS dance instructor, she expressed to me her feelings about the limited sharing of talents at CHS.

She mentioned to me that schools in Los Angeles had talent shows very frequently, in fact almost every day. That statement encouraged me to think a little deeper and consider a program like that for CHS.

After some consideration of approaches I proposed to Marie Ishida . Patrica Bebe and several instructors of the "Arts" dept. at CHS to consider some kind of consistent, alternating schedule of lunchtime performances.

All were optimistic, and in favor of my proposal.

If this proposal becomes a reality it would, most likely, begin next year around October or November. The classes that would, most likely, participate in this lunch-workshop would be: Mary Kay Le Valleys' dance workshop class, Sue Williams' design class, Diane Ericksons' assortment of art classes, a few of Dick Robbins' bands, Dennis Handys' sculpture class, and possibly others. All faculty that I spoke with were excited about my idea, and are looking forward to next year.

Trip offers trials & tribulations for 86 Disneyland-bound seniors

By BASIL PAPPAS

DESPITE TWO bus break downs, several conflicts with one of the bus drivers, a missed turn in L.A., and other inconveniences, this year's senior squad say they enjoyed themselves at Disneyland Grad Nite on May 23.

The 86 seniors on this year's trip certainly endured far more than they bargained for when they decided to board two Discovery Tours buses at 2 p.m. Thursday afternoon.

To begin with, troubled Bus No. 2 couldn't even make it out of the parking lot because of problems with a belt in the air conditioning system.

Perhaps that was just an omen of the problems to come.

Aside from the slowness of Bus No.1 and the longer route, the major reason for delay was the fact that the bus driver, for some reason, took a long, downtown boulevard to the park instead of using the regular freeway exit. To compound the problems the driver turned in the wrong direction at first, and proceeded to drive 20 minutes before realizing his mistake.

Exchange student Serge Urech, a Bus No.1 passenger, says,"It proved to me there was definitely something wrong with the bus company."

Despite all of the hassles in getting to their desired destination, most students were able to enjoy the four hours they had left of Grad Nite. Because of the relatively low attendance of this particular date, CHS students enjoyed remarkable short lines, often not more than 15 minutes for top rides such as the Matterhorn, Star Tours, Space Mountain, and the Haunted House.

In addition to regular rides, 1991's graduates were treated to musical performances by C & C Music Factory, Stevie B., Timmy T., and En Vogue.

Bus No. 2 passenger Gesa Reimnitz says after all of the hassles of the ride down, she had a good time at the park.

She says, "(It was) at first a disappointment....but the people at Disneyland and CHS did the best to make it a good time."

As usual, nearly everyone was exhausted by the end of Grad Nite, as they slept on the bus and even in the parking lot until the two bus drivers returned from their mandatory eight-hour rest at a nearby hotel.

While those in Bus No.1 has no complaints about their driver (aside from his getting lost), it was impossible to find a happy camper on Bus No. 2.

Reinmitz agrees, "We had an awful bus driver. He was rude and had no consideration for us."

Nor were students the only furious passengers. CHS faculty chaperone Ann Berry was so angry that by the morning after the trip she finally took all her frustrations out on the driver.

"At that point I told him how much I disliked his behavior (on the bus) and what an a——e he was."

Her complaints were apparently well-founded. Senior class advisor Donna Krasnow gave the following list of complaints in a letter to the Discovery Tours bus company.

Krasnow pleaded that the company never assign the driver the CHS nor to ANY group of teenagers again.

The driver defended what many would call his "fascist" disciplinary regime. He said he maintained adequate safety, plus he was burnt out from excessive travel, and that he brought his problems at home with his teenagers to CHS kids.

Not to give the wrong impression of Discovery Tours. Krasnow says she has been satisfied the previous seven times CHS has hired them. She also plans to thank the driver on Bus No.1 for his courteous and even-keeled reaction to the kids.

Coach Wright thinks the Class of 1991 deserves the biggest commendation of anyone for basically taking lemons and making lemonade.

"I thought that for all of the challenges the kids were wonderful....I think that really speaks loud of this year's class."

No doubt, Grad Nite 1991 will go down in CHS history.

CHS' Jenny Dyer named to M.T.A.L.

By SARAH PETERSON

BEING CHOSEN for the M.T.A.L. All-League softball team is just one of a long list of awards earned by CHS senior Jenny Dyer.

To say that Dyer is a coach's dream would be an understatement.

Dyer's coach, Neil Jones,told The Sandpiper that one of his colleagues summed up Dyer's talent by saying, "Jenny Dyer is a player that every coach wishes they had 10 of."

She was one of three girls voted unanimously for the award by the league's coaches.

"She earned the respect of all the coaches not, only as a player but also as a person," confirms Jones.

Jones praises Dyer's mental and physical abilities.

"Beyond her ability to play the game on the field, she maintained a good attitude and positive outlook on the field," says Jones, who adds that Dyer is "definitely inspirational" and has a "real good work ethic."

At practice she doesn't just want to fool around. "It's contagious, other girls see that and want to work as hard," Jones says.

Typically, Dyer downplays her most recent accomplishment.

"Softball kind of comes naturally to me," says Dyer, who during her 13 years of playing the game has received coaching from her father during Little League, while her mother kept score.

Her pop still tosses the ball around with her occasionally.

The first freshman to be chosen for the varsity team four years ago., Dyer umpires Little League games and enjoys helping the kids with their skills.

"I like softball because it's a team sport and an individual sport," Dyer adds.

Her ability seems to have brought success to many areas of Dyer's school career. This year she has received National Merit finalist, D.A.R. citizenship award, Most Inspirational Varsity Volleyball player, captain of the varsity basketball team that went to C.C.S., as well as being the yearbook editor and receiving a 4.0 grade-point average. She will be attending U.C. Berkeley in the fall.

However, Dyer has no plans to play softball at Berkeley; while in in many ways she is relieved at the break, she admits that she will probably miss it next springtime.

Says Dyer, "It's too bad I'm a senior this year...next year's team will be good."

The yolk's not on Mr. Lyon's students

By SHANNON BIDDY

NO, THE eggs out on the field at CHS are not pregnant seagulls that happened to fly by, they are the products of Mr. Lyon's egg-launching contest.

This was the assignment: students had to figure out a way to launch an egg 100 feet through the air in a medieval renaissance kind of way.

Although the rules were slightly bent, the students were supposed to limit themselves from using modern materials.

There were many creative and fun ideas, and even though some failed, the effort was there and they had a lot of fun with their attempts.

The most creative use of her attempt was Suzzane Baker, she actually wore the egg as a dress. (Before this attempt, however, she happened to have an extreme back fire of her sling-shot method.)

The best tasting project would have to be the threesome of David Klien, Matt Sagen, and Shannon Biddy. Although they didn't have styrofoam in the renaissance days, they succeeded. The egg was placed in a yogurt cup full of yogurt, surrounded by shreaded lettuce, potato salad, and two Styrofoam cups taped together. Matt Sagen threw it 108 feet, eight inches over the minimum!

David quotes, "We could have used paper cups instead of styrofoam and tar instead of tape. We cold have abided by the renaissance rules," but it was kind of a desperate after lunch kind of thing. As five cities follows lunch at 5th period.

Amy Watts and Mark Lagoy would be the team that most abided by the non-contemporary, renaissance rules of governing propulsion.

They attached straw basket with the egg inside, to the 100 foot long sting of yarn. Then using the pulley method to opposite the egg to the other side.

The project was a hands-on learning experience for all. It was a creative project that really forced the students to use their minds.

It's time to take a look back at 1990-91

By FRANK MELICIA

AS THE year comes to a close it is interesting to look back at the highs and lows of the school year.

What seems as nothing right now will be our memories as adults. Looking back it seems as though there is nothing to remember, but take a better look and you will see a great year for all.

The Padre football team was a contender in MTAL football for the first time in three years. The team brought great excitement with dancing, prancing, and joking Tobin Leslie breaking for incredible runs. At his side was the reliable, quiet, century man, MVPP, Mark Fanderl who did anything possible to win. No way can we forget the incredible arm of the Padres, quarterback Mario Bertilucci who dazzled with his roll left throw right passes to tight end Kelly Starrett. These four were the finesse of the offense but more importantly were the MEN in front and great blocking back Dan Kurz who provided some good runs. Coach J. as they call him, had a great year and should be proud of his team.

The year brought our five-year drought to its knees and gave kids a chance to see snow capped mountains for the first time in some years. The river flowed (strongly) for the first time in quite a while and gave some students of the school a chance to prove their manhood and raft down the HELLACIOUS, as they put it, rapids.

This year's important senior ladies were Teffani Tilney and Brandi Brushert who were the ladies of honor in Homecoming, the Winter ball and Prom. Tiffani was the lady of honor in both the Winter Ball and Prom and Brandi took queen of Homecoming.

The year saw a great sports program. Swimming, water polo, diving, volleyball, field hockey, basketball (both girls and guys), softball, soccer, track and field, cross country, tennis, wrestling, and last and definitely not the least, actually the greatest baseball all provided the students, parents,m and faculty great excitement in competition.

The greatest achievement of the year goes to the girls' varsity basketball team,who not only went to CCS, and did well, but also had the highest grade-point average of the Central Coast Section.

This year we introduced into the "no bell' policy, which got mixed reviews from both students and the faculty.

This year will be the last year of six periods and most of them being solids for next year more electives will be offered seven periods will be the requirement except for the fortunate.

We saw, for the first time (and the last, thank God) Marc Lagoy and the other Mark Fanderl showing off their running and high five skills from opposites of the gym. They were an unforgettable combination.

We saw a war that the US successfully kicked some serious butt in and for the first time in a while patriotism was back in style. It brought a new hero to our gungho people, in that being "Stormin" Norman.

The 49ers and Athletics were knocked out of their supposed dynasties by the Giants and the Reds.

Hopefully for the next year it will be just as entertaining but there will be no taking back the memories of the school year of '90-'91.

Street resurfacing project to begin

THE CARMEL Public Works Department will be paving Junipero Avenue from 3rd Avenue to Camino Del Monte, and 11th Avenue between Torres Street and Junipero Avenue during the period July 5 to Sept. 30. In addition, the Department will be resurfacing streets east of Junipero and north of Ocean during the same time period.

During the work, the streets will be closed periodically to through traffic. Detours will be fairly easy and will be well-marked. Residents living in the construction area will have access to their homes and will receive individual notification of local traffic restrictions as the work progresses.

Drivers are advised to remain alert to detour changes and the movement of heavy trucks during the construction period. Special caution must be exercised by vehicles driving into the city on Camino Del Monte.

All problems or questions should be directed to the Carmel Public Works Department at 624-3543.

I'm bored

SOUND FAMILIAR? It won't be long now. Summer vacation. Kids can't wait for school to end but after about a week, sleeping in and hanging around the house wears thin for everyone, especially when mom or dad calls during the lunch hour to find that their young vacationer is still in bed. So what is there to do during an endless summer?

In Pacific Grove Recreation Director John Miller and his staff are prepared to keep easily bored day-campers on the move. The Adventure Program for kids 7-12 runs Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. June 17 to August 23. Each week is a different theme. During Beach Week young Pagrovians board city vans and hit the sands of the peninsula; their own Lover's Point, Carmel Beach, Pt. Lobos, Monastery Beach. City Orientation Week means visiting city hall, the police department and maybe a chat with the mayor. Day trips to the Santa Cruz Boardwalk and Great America give a broader perspective and make sure both kids and camp leaders don't get bored.

Miller says the swimming programs, tots and junior athletic clubs, baseball and soccer are popular summertime activities. Some, like the parent tot water orientation classes, offer parents a chance to get in the water with their little ones.

How about the 12 to 15 age group? What does the recreation department have planned for them? John Miller laughs incredulously, "Are you dreaming? The Pacific Grove Rec Club on Laurel Street is about 40 years old and in need of repair, but even if we had the money to fix it up there's no guarantee the kids would use it." Summer drop-in hours at the Rec Club are Tuesday evenings from 8 to 10 p.m. and Friday evenings 7 to 10 p.m. During the day the Rec Club is the home base for the Adventure Program and is unavailable for teen use. Miller believes individualist attitudes or simply, me, me, me, makes group activities uncool for young teens.

"They want to hang out. We don't see very many leaders in that age group. It takes a leader to make a place cool and trendy. The Rec Club is not considered trendy."

Skateboarding has been trendy for quite a while and young riders often claim the lack of facilities and negative attitudes toward their sport are discriminatory. Miller says skateboard parks like the one that was built in Santa Cruz had to be closed down because of sky-high insurance costs and lawsuits that resulted from injuries. So skate boarders continue to hang out.

He hopes to interest the young rebels in basketball at the Pacific Grove High gym which will be open for Gym Time from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, July 15, through Aug. 9. Good luck John.

For more information on the Pacific Grove Recreation Department's summer programs call 648-3130.

For the 12-and-unders Carmel's acting Recreation Director Jerry Pullen and his staff have kenpo karate for Kids, that old standby Junior Tennis, Aerobic Dancing and an Arts and Crafts Program with classes like Science Sleuths (investigate slimy creatures and eat them), and Splash, Mash, Curl, Sprinkle (sounds like a trip to the hairdresser). Puppets, Puppets, Puppets, Games Galore, Parent n' Child Fun forage and Fun With Art are new this summer as is Clowning Around, scheduled from June 25 to Aug. 1.

Pullen couches his words and proudly states that attendance at the Carmel Youth Center is up 1,000 percent from what it was three or four years ago. Middle and high school age kids can drop in for lunch with their friends, a pick-up game of basketball or table tennis. In the same breath he admits attendance could be better, especially during the day, but he knows many young people get summer jobs.

"They need money. It can cost a 16-year-old boy $2,400 a year to pay car insurance. Parents expect their kids to help out with those costs. Kids have to work these days."

Youth Center Director Mike Gorczyca is taking Carmel area teens who have free time on Summer Safaris: Great America, Magic Mountain, Raging Water and the Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk. Summer programs also include a Big Sur Horseback Tour, Soccer Camps, Fly Casting, Three On Three Basketball and a Summer Hawaiian Dance.

Call the Carmel-By-The-Sea Recreation Department at 626-1255 and the Carmel Youth Center at 624-3285 for more information.

Up the valley Kathleen Tarp, director of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, believes many parents send their children to summer school to get them out of the house. She is targeting those hard to reach teens and has Natalie Shea waiting in the wings. As soon as school is out Natalie plans to start up programs that will include watercolor classes, ceramics, track and field, cheerleading, gymnastics and maybe aerobics classes.

Kathleen is hoping her enthusiasm will be contagious. "Young teens lose out because nobody offers anything for them. If we can pump up the community we'll have lots of classes and dances for the older kids." Good luck to you too, Kathleen.

can sign up for Day Camp and play pirate, take field trips and dress up as their favorite historical characters during the theme weeks to come. Day Camp starts July 8 and runs until August 16, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with before and after camp care available. Tarp has hired two gung-ho college students and points out that the cost of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center camps and programs are the lowest in the area. Other activities include camp outs every other Friday night and swimming lessons every day starting June 17.

43 YEARS YOUNG

The annual Fireman's Ball was held recently at Hidden Valley in Carmel Valley. It reminded us of college dances at the armory. The weather was perfect and everyone seemed to know everyone else. Or hoped to.

The Fireman's Ball is a night for cruising, checking out the action. And there was plenty. Cars filled the field/parking lot and snaked up the valley road onto Pilot and Ford. The dress was Carmel Valley eclectic. It was refreshing to see a cross-section of the community, all having a good time. Cut-off Levis and cowboy boots felt at ease along side little black cocktail dresses, pearls and sincere smiles.

Carmel Valley postman Ray Lindsay and his wife Veronica counted the years they have been coming to the ball. It started for them when their daughter was a baby and she's 22 now.

The Fireman's Ball has been in Carmel Valley for 43 years and is the only fund-raiser for the Carmel Valley Volunteers. The volunteers sponsor a Little League team, hold an Easter egg hunt and deliver gifts at Christmas time in addition to other year-round community activities.

TWO TIMES THE FUN

Bob Reade, chairman of the American Cancer Society's "Second Annual Tennis Classic" was happy the tournament, held at Spanish Bay Tennis Pavilion, went so well. So well, in fact, that an overflow of players was sent off to Robert Louis Stevenson School to play and even more were turned away for lack of space. Twice as many players as last year meant twice as much money raised. And the silent auction didn't hurt either. Neither did Ed Stark's gourmet barbecue; tri-tips, bouillabaisse, sausage and chicken, "drunken strawberries" and cookies.

CHILDREN'S ARTFEST

Sunset Center Director Brian Donoghue was busy last Saturday. He raced between the Friends of Sunset Center's "Annual Meeting and Awards Ceremony" and the "First Annual Children's Artfest." The "Children's Artfest" was jointly sponsored by Sunset Center and the Monterey Cultural Council.

"This was a very successful pilot program and heralds a continued dedication to children's programming here at Sunset Center. We all loved it!" Donoghue beamed. The day offered over 75 children the chance to attend three different classes taught by artists in clay, sculpture, singing, weaving and spinning, theater, recyclable art, pantomime, crayon resist, and shapes. A final performance by the Mbonqi Dance Theater project, which invited children and their teachers to join dancers and drummers on stage, capped the day's activities. Good luck, Brian.

UNCLE "B" and Aunt Elinor invited relatives from as far as away as Tennessee for the family reunion they hosted at their San Antonio Street home in Carmel recently. Casa Laiolo was filled with blue-eyed Italians and one brown-eyed distant cousin who caused quite a stir. Former city council member Elinor, who was a Shaughnessy before she married three-time Carmel Mayor Barney Laiolo, cooked up a big pot of Irish stew with garlic bread on the side and served Italian tortoni for desert. Then Barney got out the ukelele and accompanied three of his five nieces, who harmonized while they did the dishes.

EMILE Norman, Marsh Hovick and J.D. Clinton received "Silver Recognition Awards" for contributing 25 years or more of service to the cultural life of Carmel at the annual membership meeting of the Friends of Sunset Center held recently at the Scout House in Carmel. Jean White, Laurie Schumann and Louise Tanous also were recognized for their service. Laurie, who has been in charge concessions for Sunset Center, missed the official ceremony. She was in the kitchen.

THE Monterey History and Art Association selected Alissa Church as La Favorita for the "Merienda," the annual birthday celebration of the City of Monterey. Alissa reigned over the festivities which mark the founding of the pueblo of Monterey by Padre Junipero Serra and Captain Gaspar de Portola. Alissa is also a favorite in Pacific Grove. She is a former Queen Topaz and performed in the annual Feast of Lanterns pageant. Church may not sound like a old Spanish family name but Alissa is descended through her paternal grandmother, from Jose Manuel Boronda, who came to Monterey in 1797 as a member of the early Spanish colonization movement.

WE'RE going to be hearing a lot about that new museum on the wharf in Monterey in the months to come. Museum personnel admit it's confusing and Lanie Knight Fremier kindly corrected last week's "Coast & Country" faux pas. Lanie should know. The nucleus of the Maritime Museum was built around her father Allen Knight's extensive collection and given his name in 1971. So it's the Stanton History Center, housing the Allen Knight Maritime Museum. The maritime Museum will be on the second floor of the History Center. The main floor will be devoted primarily to an orientation theater and displays.

ALISSA CHURCH of Pacific Grove was La Favorita for the "Merienda," Monterey's annual birthday party.

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

By Mary Parsons

Super Saturday ahead

SUPER SATURDAY - A Day at the Park" on June 15 will mark the end of the 1991 season. Events planned to follow the scheduled final games include a Bat-a-Thon, a Homerun Derby for adults and kids, a "Dunk an Ump" tank, a hot dog/hamburger barbecue, and of course, closing ceremonies. (More on the bat-a-thon in next week's column.) Tickets for the barbecue ($5 adults, $2 kids) are on sale now by teams. For additional tickets call Nan McCauley: 624-0773.

BRONCO: La Playa's bats were hot on May 21 as they defeated Pine Inn 13-3. Leading hitters: LP's Michael Cohen (2/3, double, 2 RBI, 3 runs), David Keeble (2/3), Kevin Witherall (2/4), Russell Chaplan (double, 2 RBI) and Eric Nystrom (double). PI's Ch-is Spilfogel nailed a sharp hit. Cohen and Derek Rinderknecht pitched well for the winners.

Vessey's rallied back from a tie to down Bay Bikes 7-4 on May 22. Hits: R.J. Minard (3/4, double, RBI) led the winners; BB's Chris Arthur (2/4, RBI), Justin Henze and Rushad Eggleston doubled. Good fielding included a double play by V's Mike Yee and effective second base by BB's Chris Arthur.

The game between Carmel Valley Disposal and Derek Rayne on May 23 was suspended with a 9-9 tie, much to the fans' dismay (the game will be played off later if the standings are affected). Top hitters: DR's Ben Cook (3/4, 2 doubles, 3 RBI), Ryan Bailey 2/4, double, RBI), Kris Pallastrini (2/3, 2 RBI); CVD's Joey Macaluso, Brian Christensen (double, 3 RBI). Good Gloves: CVD's Peter Jamison (DP), Tony Klevan; DR's Michael Spencer. Bay Bikes rode over La Playa 15-2 on June 1. BB's Nick

M (2/3, 2 RBI) was top hitter; Rushad Eggleston, Kent Wehde and Russell Wolter (RBI) doubled, while Tim Greco drove in a run. LP's Steven Moran had a sharp hit. On the mound for the winners, Dylan Pappas allowed only 3 hits in 4 innings, and Greco threw two shutout innings.

On June 1, Pine Inn toppled Carmel Valley Disposal 6-2. Hit list: PI's Ryan Travaille (2/2, triple, RBI), Tommy Gerken (double) and Patrick Foudy (2 RBI); CVD's Joey Macaluso (2/3). Pitcher Daniel Palshaw held CVD scoreless for 4 innings. Gerken's leaping centerfield catch robbed Brian Huntington of a sure home run, while Chris Spilfogel's twisting snag of a foul ball up the line at first and David Spilfogel's skills at second base were key in the win. CVD's Richard Vega pitched two shutout innings.

Vessey's knocked off Derek Rayne on June 1, 9-4, to edge into first place. Leading hitters for the winners: Seth Duval (2/2), R.J. Minard (3/4, double), Ben Armbrust (2/4, double); Dominic Boitano and Reid Roberts doubled. DR's Michaela Hill and Eric Langslet turned a double play; V's Avner Biblarz, Boitano and Sasha Vorobiov were strong on defense.

Bronco standings June 1: Vessey's, 9-3; Derek Rayne, 8-3-1; CVD, 6-6-1; Bay Bikes, 5-7; Pine Inn, 5-8; La Playa, 3-9.

MUSTANG : Granite Construction nailed On the Beach with a 12-7 score on May 21. For the winners, Trevor Fogg (3/3, triple, 3 RBI) and Justin Brennen (triple, 2 RBI) were leading hitters; Anthony Kamm drove in a run with a solid base hit. Brian Boitano struck out 8 batters. OTB's Robby Wellington nailed an in-park home run and made an unassisted double play; Michael Horsley was noted for outstanding base running.

Copies by the Sea scored heavily in almost every inning, to defeat County Mounties May 22, 17-10. James Eccher <3/4, 2 RBI), Chris Peart (2/2, double, 2 RBI), Chris Crawley (triple, 2 RBI), and Jeremy Peacher (RBI) were hot CS batters; Shawn Cronin (3/3, 3 RBI), Chris Cook (triple, 3 RBI), Tyson Curtis and Chris Foudy were tops for CM. Tyler Emminger was hot in his pitching debut for CM; CS pitchers Chris Peart and Chris Crawley were tough on the mound, while John Donnelly showed a good glove in the field.

Carmel Dental overcame Carmel Realtors 12-8 on May 23. leading hitters: CD's Chris Canepa (triple), Ryan Lehr (3 doubles, 2 RBI) and Aaron Campbell; CR's Sean Hart, Jeff McGowan, Dane Edmondson (RBI double) and Erik Bensberg (RBI double). Carl Weiner was quick on the base paths for CD. Pitchers of note: Matt Bedell (CR) and Keath moon (CD).

Copies by the Sea played hot ball on June 1 to down Carmel Dental 18-9. Zubin Eggleston hit 2/2, scored twice, and pitched a scoreless third inning for the winners. CD's Keath Moon nailed a 3-run home run. More hits: CS' Ross Saroyan (2/3, double, 2 runs, Hank Stoffers (2-RBI double); CD's Ryan Lehr (2/3) and Aaron Campbell. A sharp throw from catcher Mocn to Atticus Culver-Rease nabbed a .runner at third, while CD's Ryan Lehr and CS' Hank Stoffe-s looked good on the mound.

On the Beach beat County Mounties 14-12 on June 1, despite a home run by CM's Shawn Cronin, a 2-RBI double by Taylor Hawthorne, RBIs by Tyler Emminger and Neil Grimshaw, and good hitting by Jeff Kraft. OTB's Mike Durey (double, 2 RBI) and Adam Struve (R single) aided the win. A great OTB double play Patrick Greco to Erik Struve to Robby Wellington - added excitement.

Granite continued to dominate the division with a heavy win over Carmel Realtors June 1. Trevor Fogg (3/4, 5 RBI) blasted a grand-slam, tripled and doubled; teammates Barton Vaughan and Erren Franklin (RBIs hit 2/4; Justin Brennan drove in two runs. CR's Dania Akkad tripled and stole home, Sean Hart and Dane Edmondson (RBI) doubled. Good defense: CR's Brendan Kinion. G's Kyle Evans was hot on the base paths and stole home.

Mustang standings June 1: Granite, 9-1-2; Copies by the Sea, 6-6-1; County Mounties, 6-6; PINTO: Gepetto's played Camp Carmel May 20. Good hitting: G's Ben DiGraza, Brian Kroopf, Rogers Hawley; CC's Walter Ross and Brett Pallastrini. Chris Trump (G) caught a fly ball for the first out of the game; more good glove skills were shown by Andrew Dahl, Hawley and Patrick White (CC).

Thunderbird for Kids met Proud Portraits May 21. Doubling, with 2 RBI, were P's Sean Robertson and Matthew Berry; Honey Hamilton had a great double to left field. TK's stars included Corey Wood (3/3, 2 doubles), Alex Brant (great double) and Spencer Warren (heads-up running). Good glove- TK's Brent Fogg and Wood; P's Berry and a double play by David Blagg and Sabian Ford.

The Sensations vs. Fourtane's game May 28 provided lots of excitement. Great fielding included a pop-fly catch by Joseph Goldman a stellar catch and double play by Cardiff Schmitz, and a catch by Cathy Keeble that left even Cathy surprised! The hit parade included S' Keith Kitaji (RBI double), Taylor Schmitz (2 doubles), Amy Walgenbach (2 RBIs, Cathy Keeble and Just.n Travaille; F's Kenny Kleinkopf (RBI double), Phillip Thornburgh, Nolan Bell (RBI), Zack Newhouse (2 RBI) and heavy hitters Kris Bonifas (home run, 2 doubles).

V alley Auto met Thunderbird for Kids on May 30. VA's Nick Kissel smashed an outfield double. Solid base hits: Morgan Borup and Zach Hudson (VA) and TK's Spencer Warren, Kevin Bradley and birthday girl Adrina Bruner (with 2!). Hot fielding: VA's Angela Boyd and Matthew Herbert, TK's Brett Smith and Alex Brant.

Fourtane's and Thunderbird for Kids played on June 1. TK's Brent Fogg nailed two over-the-line home runs (one a grand slam!); Corey Wood also homered. Top F hits: Brian Langslet's great 3-RBI single, outstanding hits by Philip Thornburgh and Brandon Calantoc, and good hits and fast running by Meghan Healy. Mark Flowers (F), Paul Huish and John Paul Danelon (TK) played well in the field.

Camp Carmel hosted Proud Portraits June 1. P's David Blagg homered twice; Sabian Ford drove in 2 runs and Claire Anderson was noted for good hitting. CC's Evan Parker (great double), Michael Newman (2 RBI) and Brett Pallastrini led their team in hits. Matthew Berry, Ford, Erik Carl (P) and Zarosh Eggleston, Newman and Patrick White (CC) were star fielders.

ROOKIE OKIE SB: The Little Pizza Heaven Angels lost a tough game to Monterey's Ambrosia on May 20. Cassy August doubled; Samantha Scholfield made a great back-up play from right field to first for a key out.

MAJOR SB: The P.G. Vixens downed Carmel Plaza 17-11 on May 20, despite a great Carmel start which included a Corrina Tulua triple in the first inning. Oriana Roberts doubled and singled twice; Jennifer Dickman also doubled. Shelby Wilson and Claire Huntington singled twice, while Sunny Spaulding, Adrienne Humiston, Lindsay Morris and Kim Falahati also hit.

Bugaboo declawed the Marina Jaguars in a 12-2 game May 21, behind a splendid 2-hit pitching performance by Illona Simon (11 K's and no walks in 6 innings). Rosie Crivello and Simon hit 2/4; Allison Bohnen, Stacey Gray, Kimi Wagstaff and Somer Herrold contributed hits to the win.

Corrina Tulua and Claire Huntington hit home runs when Carmel Plaza played Monterey Post 41 on May 22, but Carmel lost 10-8. Jennifer Dickman doubled and singled; Adrienne Humiston singled twice. Bugaboo scored early and hung on for an 8-7 win over the Seaside Seababes on May 28. Rosie Crivello's fine defensive play at third and a great running catch by Heidi Hazen in center aided the win, as did hits by Kimi Wagstaff (2/3/), Jennifer Rosenthal (2/3), Mary Greco, Patty Boyd and Stacey Gray.

Coach Stadille reports: "If you have to lose, the Clambox Diggers did it the right way [May 30] by playing a

COMMUNITY HOSPITAL BLOOD DRIVE SET FOR JUNE 6

The Carmel Red Cross/Community Hospital Blood Drive will hold a blood drive from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, June 6 at the American Legion Hall, Eighth and Dolores in Carmel. Lunch will be served. All blood types are needed. For more information call 624-6921.

CVPOA GENERAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING JUNE 12

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association will hold a General Membership meeting on Wednesday, June 12 at 7:30 p.m. at Hidden Valley Music Seminars (Main Auditorium) located at Carmel Valley Road and Ford Road. Lisa Hoefler, operations manager for the S.P.C.A. of Monterey County, will speak about their Wildlife Rescue and Rehabilitation Center. Hoefler started with the S.P.C.A. in 1980 as a volunteer with the Wildlife Center. She has prepared a slide presentation which provides an overview of the 3,500 animals assisted annually at the center, all of whom are species native to Monterey County. Hoefler has a background in biology and is a past vice-president of the board of directors of the International Wildlife Rehabilitation Council. The meeting is open to the general public.

THE CARMEL RIVER STEELHEAD ASSOCIATION CALLS FOR VOLUNTEERS

The Carmel River Steelhead Association (CRSA) is asking for volunteers to help in their steelhead rearing program.

During the next few weekends the CRSA will be refurbishing a former fish rearing pond to provide habitat for some 50,000 juvenile steelhead trout. Limited space at the hatchery makes it necessary to move these fish to a larger facility, and this large pond must be worked on before the fish can be transferred into it.

Volunteers will be working on a beautiful creek that flows all year, even during the drought. They are asked to wear old clothes and bring work gloves. And, also bring a lunch to picnic at this special location. For further information; when and where to meet, etc., interested volunteers should call Vern Sciocchetti at 659-4688 or Bob Stevens at 624-8751.

Gorey-Dabbs wed on beach

WALTER CHARLES Gorey, Jr. and Judy Zan Dabbs were wed on the evening of Saturday, June 1 on Carmel Beach just south of Eighth Street. Gorey is the son of Walter Charles Gorey, Sr., a retired investment banker and widely known resident of Camel. Gorey, Jr. is a graduate of Carmel High School and attended the film school at the University of California in Los Angeles. He has worked on TV movies, feature films, and the series Twin Peaks."The new bride was raised in St. Louis, Mo. She started her career as a costume designer for the Lyric Caprice Opera in Kansas City, Mo. She began working in the film industry in 1984 and has done everything from wardrobe to pyrotechnics. Now she is looking forward to living her life around her husband's long hours in production as a dress designer for Sibella of Hollywood.The couple are spending their honeymoon in Costa Rica and Guatemala.

This restoration work will take place Saturday and Sunday, June 1 &2 and possibly June 8 & 9.

The CRSA was formed almost 20 years ago to work for the restoration of the Carmel River and its sensitive wildlife habitat. The organization invites anyone in our community to get involved with the group, to directly help bring back the river's once healthy environment. Please call today and volunteer your time.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT IN THE WORKPLACE SEMINAR

As an employer, do you know your obligations to prevent harassment from occurring? As an employee, do you know your rights to a work environment free of sexual harassment?

The Monterey College of Law is presenting a program on "Sexual Harassment in the Workplace" on Thursday, June 6 at the Monterey Conference Center (Ferrante Rooms). The time is 7-9 p.m. and the fee is $10.

This class is one of a series of Community Legal Education programs offered throughout the year on subjects of general interest. For more information on this or other programs, or to register for the class, call the law school at 373-3301.

LIABILITY/NONPROFIT BOARDS TOPIC OF JUNE 6 WORKSHOP

Laws affecting nonprofits are constantly changing. Boards and staff must be aware of these changes and examine their policies, procedures - even liability insurance policies - to safeguard their organizations.

John N. Staples III, is a local attorney with the firm Millard, Tourangeau, Morris & Staples. He specializes in business and real estate transactions and has served on the boards of numerous educational, civic and charitable organizations. Mr. Staples is the regional Air Force Liaison Officer for the U.S. Air Force Academy and served in Vietnam as a Marine helicopter pilot.

"Liability and the Nonprofit Board" workshop will be held June 6, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., cost is $50 and includes lunch. It will be held at First Presbyterian Church, Monterey.

great game against a tough Toro Park team. Jodie "Clammie" Lincoln pitched three great shutout innings while the rest of the gang played tough defense. Hac Seltzer, Duffy Dougherty, Lefty Phillips, Cranefly Murray, and Thaya 'Happy' Saxby all had big hits; the CB offensive machine blasted out 6 first inning runs. Lola Struve, Speedy Hahl, and Goose Cox added good work with the cowhide." ~ May 30, Illona Simon pitched a one-hit shut-out for Bugaboo against the Toro Park Spirits, backed up by fine defense by Stacey Gray, Rosie Crivello and Allison Bohnen. Patty Boyd doubled in Bugaboo's 10th win this season.

PONY: The A's beat the Red Sox 11-1 on May 28 behind pitcher Michael Palshaw's no-hitter (his second in Pony competition); Palshaw struck out 12 and also belted an RBI triple. Justin Garza (3/3, triple, double, 2 RBI) and Scott Faverty (2/4, 2-run triple) led the A's hitting.

On May 29, Padres pitchers Laith Agha and Evan Tyler shut out the Mets 10-0 (no walks, 5 hits). Agha was also top batter (3/4, double, 2 RBI, 4 runs). Kyle Wertz was 2/4; the Mets' Carlson hit 2/3. The Padres had 8 consecutive hits in the 4th.

The Tigers beat Marina 15-8 on May 30; starting pitcher Aaron Gailey picked up the win, aided by Casey Christensen and Joey Bernhard. Top hitting: Gailey (2/4, triple, 3 RBI), Kyle Nichols (2 doubles), Christensen (2 RBI), Charley Johnston (RBI double).

The Tiger bats continued hot June 1 as they beat the Padres 13-4. Winner Casey Christensen and Joey Bernhard scattered 4 Padre hits. Tigers' hitting was led by Toby Lauterbach (3/4, 2 RBI), Lucas Henecks (2/2, RBI), Andy Emerson and Aaron Gailey (each 2/3 with RBI). The game ended as the Tigers pulled off a slick 4-6-3 double play.

The league-leading A's (5-0) took a 13-8 win over the Mets June 1; it was Justin Garza's third win, with Chris Leonoff in relief. Highlighting the A's 15 hits and 8-run second inning was Garza's 4/5 hitting (with 2 ground-rule doubles and 4 RBI); triples by Darren DeMayo (2 RBI), Andy Lieberman (3/4, RBI) and Leonoff. Jeff Pritchard (M) had 2 triples and 3 RBI); teammate Ben Thompson homered (2 RBI). A's players Lieberman, Adam Zerbe and DeMayo ended the game with a crisp G-4-3 double play.

Chartwell School is the only full-day educational program on the Central Coast for children ages 7-14 with dyslexia. It is estimated that 15 percent of our population is afflicted with dyslexia to some degree. Chartwell's mission is to help these youngsters learn how to learn and return them as quickly as possible to their schools of choice, usually within two to three years.

For further information or to receive an invitation, call Chartwell School at 394-3468.

WORKSHOP DESIGNED TO HELP PARENT AND CHILD

Just when you thought it would never happen...romance enters your life. You're feeling fulfilled by this relationship and excited about the many possible turns your life is taking. And so is your partner. But not everyone is as thrilled as you are — particularly your child — who is "freaking out!" He/she is pouting, having temper tantrums, being demanding and needy, or using baby talk: typical behaviors of a child faced with a new person in the life of his parent.

The Buddy Program of the Monterey Peninsula and Terrill Keeler, a marriage and family counselor, are sponsoring a workshop 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday, June 13 to discuss this critical issue. Come to hear and discover the ways you can help both yourself and your child during this difficult period of adjustment.

Keeler has worked extensively with children whose lives have been impacted through separation, divorce and remarriage. Keeler is also a mother of two.

The event is free of charge, but please notify Buddy Program at 655-9231 if you're interested in attending.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Bless our tortillas

Oh Almighty and Eternal God, on this eve of the 213th birthday of Monterey, we humbly ask

Thee not only to provide but to bless our frijoles, tortillas and vino rubio as you bless us all to Thy service above self.

Early this morning I took down from its lace of honor, John Steinbeck's Tortilla Flats. I was born just three blocks east of the Flat that is not flat, and I knew its characters and they and many others were neighbors, friends, classmates and companions. I feel sure that most of them have already begun the Monterey Birthday Party, Merienda in heaven's heights.

Grasping the holy hand of Padre Junipero Serra, the strong arm of Gaspar de Portola and the gray robe of Padra Juan Crespi, they will be surrounded by their ancestors, Indians, Spaniards, Mexicans and Hueros.

O Dios Poderoso, in these 213 years. You have continued to bless this pine-covered peninsula, but most of all you have blessed its inhabitants, like the paisanos of Tortilla Flat, who have been by and large, able to rise above greed and selfishness to embrace a friend and a stranger in kindness.

In the olden days when we said, "Comos estas?" El Viejo replied, "Como los pobres." Like the poor—poor, but contented. The happiness of the paisano is not a fable nor is it a myth.

Pilon (pilon is something thrown in when a trade is made—a boot) tells us that its virtue has been enshrined in history to keep sneers from the lips of sour scholars. It is the secret of gracious sharing. Happy Birthday, Monterey! Hey, Pilon, pass the jug of vino! Amen.

The Golden Years

By Miles Williams

Eli Finn was only 83 in 1973 when, after 41 years as a sales representative, he was retired by an appliance company. So he got a selling job with an independent stove company, taking the 7:04 a.m. commuter train daily from Norwalk, Connecticut, to New York City. "Even in a blizzard (he) made it in," said a coworker. "People didn't think he'd ever retire." So when customers call now and ask for him, they are told "he's going to college." And that's the truth. At age 100, Eli Finn is taking courses at Fairfield University. To get there, he guides his 12-year-old auto onto Interstate 95, a heavily travelled road that many younger drivers avoid. A reporter accompanying him to get material on this centenarian's zest for life related how he quickly gets into the left lane and passes other cars and 18-wheel trucks.

Margaret Grossman is 88, and continues to serve as a volunteer at a geriatric center in New York City. To get there four days a week, she walks two miles each way to help cheer people worse off physically, some of them younger than she is.

BRIDGE CLUB RESULTS REVEALED

Bridge has proven itself to be one of the most exciting games in the world, but it is also a place to encounter interesting new personalities.

A number of visitors to the Carmel area attended the bridge game held at Sunset Center on Monday, May 27. Two of them, Sonal Parkvash, from India, and her partner, Quasim Noorani, from Pakistan, played an expert game and won the highest score.

Parkvash and Noorani, who play a big club system, played North/South and in that position second place was won by Roger Greenwald and Barbara Yeomans; third place was tied by Mary Lou Bernhardt and Shirley Temple, and Manfred Holl and Maurice Rand, from New Jersey.

This art exhibit labelled 'please touch'

By ANNE PAPINEAU

WHEN DON WOBBER opened his garden to the public as part of last month's Monterey County Open Studio Tour, he realized he wasn't the only one who appreciates the tactile pleasures of jade.

Nearly 100 people took advantage of the open invitation to visit his Pacific Grove home and see the newest of his sculptures, all carved out of the rich green stone that he harvests in the waters off Jade Cove south of Big Sur.

Wobber is recognized as one of the world's leading jade sculptors, and was cited in a National Geographic cover story that focused on the semi-precious stone.

Last month, as the curious filed in and out of his yard, Wobber noticed that a tall man with a white beard approached his sculpture, "The Touchstone."

"It was out in the sunshine in the yard," the sculptor recalled. "The sun would hit it and heat it up. 'The Touchstone' would be cold in the morning, but would be warm by the end of the day."

Seeing the man lay hands on the sun-warmed jade, and appear to derive inspiration from it, made Wobber realize that others can appreciate the feel of what he describes as "a yummy piece of jade."

"I just think you can't keep your hands off the stuff," he observed. "As far as the sense of touch, sighted people are probably neophytes."

Thus came to be Wobber's latest exhibit, opening Saturday, June 8 at the Ledbetter Gallery in Carmel-by-the-Sea. "The Magic of Touch," open to all, will have two opening receptions. The first is set 4 to 7 p.m. June 8. The second, set 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, June 14, is an invitation extended especially to the visually impaired.

"In museums, one of the first things you learn is 'Don't Touch,' " Wobber observed. "So here is an exhibit that says, 'Please Touch.' It's a very different way of perceiving. It is very calming, a chance to get in touch with the inner self."

Wobber contacted the Blind and Visually Impaired Center on Laurel Avenue in Pacific Grove. Its directors agreed to produce labels for the sculptures in Braille, and a portion of sales proceeds will be donated to that organization.

This very touchable exhibit consists of both Wobber's sculptures in California nephrite jade and original poetry written by himself and others.

He writes, "Jade is a calming stone, containing a certain mysticism, a certain mythology. Beneath whirling subtidal elements off the rugged Big Sur Coast, nephrite jade boulders lie in pre-historic stillness as though retaining the unconscious memory of a molten world. "

This new exhibit represents for Wobber, 63, a "dream come true."

"It's sort of a reversal crack in the ice," he said. "Blind people getting sighted people to try something. These people may be blind but they probably see more than we do. Oils from our hands enhance the jade. And it's a very different way of perceiving."

"The Magic of Touch" can be viewed through July 8 at the Ledbetter Gallery, located on in the Bonnymead Court, Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh, Carmel. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. for additional information, call 626-9252.

BACH NOTES

'Soul in the Feet,' or Dance and the Carmel Bach Festival

By J.R. FOWLER, Jr.

"... the New York Baroque Dance Company brought exuberant life to the stage .... with their colorful, rich costumes and masks, and with soul in the feet."

Frankfurter Allgemaine Zeitung
September 1988

MUCH OF THE music of the Baroque era is dance music. Bach composed many pieces for listening and dancing. The Carmel Bach Festival presents a visual embodiment of the dance music of the era with Catherine Turocy and her New York Baroque Dance Company.

In 1976 Catherine Turocy co-founded the New York Baroque Dance Company and since then it has established itself as the leading company of historical dance today. As artistic director of the company Miss Turocy's research and interpretation of baroque dance has challenged long-held views of theatrical dance of the baroque period.

Baroque dance is more stylized than the modern ballet we're familiar with. Distinguished by complex floor patterns, a close interplay between music and movement, vertical carriage of the body, ornamental hand gestures and direct eye contact — Baroque dance establishes a personal rapport between dancer and audience.

Baroque dance notation records the step units, floor patterns and correlation with music but does not give exact notation of hand gestures. Turocy's choreography for the arms and attitudes of the body is drawn from action and theatrical dance treatises of the period. These distinguish between use of the body on stage as opposed to the ballroom. In general the stage requires the grander and more exaggerated gesture, the same as public speaking does in comparison with conversation.

The 1991 season of the Carmel Bach Festival brings the New York Baroque Dance Company before festival audiences for the third year. This year Turocy and company bring authentic dance steps and original choreography to the festival. Those evenings and programs are:

Tuesdays, July 16, 23 and 30 — presenting Mozart's ballet, "Les Petits Riens." The ballet, "The Little Nothings," will bring six dancers of the New York Baroque Dance Company to the stage at Sunset Theater; they are Ernesta Corvino, Thomas Baird, Catherine Turocy, Andra Corvina, Hugh Murphy and Elizabeth Du Val. In designing new choreography Miss Turocy has explored the 18th century dance technique and its performing conventions. Her choreography expresses in movement the essence of character and emotion described by the music.

On Thursdays, July 18, 25 and Aug. 1, "Soloists' Night" will feature two dance/orchestral presentations. The first will be Bach's Orchestral Suite No. 3 in D, to which a solo ballet will be danced by Catherine Turocy. Through original choreography Miss Turocy interprets the six movements of the Bach Suite. Covering a range of emotion from the ethereal, soulful, the almost comic, the flirtatious to the sheer joy of dance with the fast tempos of the Bouree and the closing Gigue.

Later that evening the New York Baroque Dance Company will present dances from the "Commedia dell' arte;" Italian popular comedy of the 16th-18th centuries in which masked entertainers improvise from standard situations and characters. The dances, with original choreography by Miss Turocy, are based on descriptions of Baroque dance written in 1716 by Venetian dance master Gregorio Lambranzi.

Mark your calendars for the Tuesday and Thursday evening concerts of the 54th season of the Carmel Bach Festival. The music of Mozart and Bach will delight the ear as the dancing of the New York Baroque Dance Company will please the eye.

Good seats are available. Order yours by calling the festival ticket line at 624-2046.

More information about the music and performers of this year's festival is available by calling the festival office at 624-1521.

Fifth Mozart in Monterey festival set June 9-16

VIOLINIST STEVEN STARYK heads the roster of front-rank performers who will gather for the fifth annual Mozart in Monterey International Festival, featuring the Chamber Orchestra of America under the baton of Music Director Oleg Kovalenko, June 9 through June 16.

Demonstrating a continuing commitment to bring world-class musicians to Central California, the festival will offer a series of three orchestral performances and three chamber music concerts featuring 38 of America's and Canada's most distinguished artists - soloists, principal players from major orchestras, and key performers from the film and recording industries. This year's festival, marking the 200th anniversary of Mozart's death, will be held in two Monterey locations: chamber music concerts will take place June 9, 10 and 11 at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall,and orchestral performances will be held June 14, 15 and 16 at the Performing Arts Center, Santa Catalina School.

The festival's conductor, Maestro Oleg Kovalenko has been music director of Mozart in Monterey since its founding in 1986. Acknowledged by critics and musicians alike as one of the foremost interpreters of classical music, he served as resident conductor of the Indianapolis Symphony and has appeared as guest conductor of many major orchestras, including the Chicago, Detroit, St.Louis New Jersey, Baltimore and Dallas symphonies. His nationwide reputation has made it possible for him to draw together a chamber orchestra which is ranked as one of the finest in the United States.

A special feature of the 1991 festival will be the appearance of the Chamber Orchestra of America.

Staryk, whose artistry has been compared to that of Heifetz, has served as concertmaster of four of the world's major orchestras - the Chicago Symphony, the Royal Philharmonic of London, the Concertgebouw of Amsterdam, and the Toronto Symphony. As a soloist, he has toured worldwide, and has made over 190 recordings, including 16 world premieres. Staryk will appear as soloist with the Chamber Orchestra of America on Sunday, June 16, in Mozart's Concerto No. 3 for Violin and Orchestra, K. 216, and will serve as concertmaster of the orchestra throughout the festival.

Virginia Sublett, the American soprano who made her debut with Mozart in Monterey during its premiere season in 1986, will return for two performances this year. She will solo with the orchestra on Friday, June 14, in Benjamin Britten's Les Illuminations, Op. 18, and will be heard on June 15 in a group vocal masterpieces selected from Mozart's operas and religious works.

In 1987, Miss Sublett made her debut with the New York City Opera. Her performance was recognized by Musical America in its "Young Artist" issue, which identified her as a "talent to watch." Subsequently she has appeared with numerous major opera companies — most recently with the Nice Opera (France), where she appeared as Aspasia in Mozart's Mitridate, Re di Ponte, a production which was recorded for release on CD.

The series will also feature noted artists Joel Timm, oboe, and Mark Westcott and David Maroz, pianists. Timm, returning to Mozart in Monterey for his fifth consecutive year, will appear as oboe soloist with the orchestra on Saturday, June 15, in Mozart's Oboe Concerto, K. 314. He served as associate principal oboe of the New York Philharmonic under Zubin Mehta, and has made numerous recordings for Vox, GRI, RCA, Columbia and Angel.

Mark Westcott and David Maroz will share piano duties during the Festival's chamber music concerts.

Westcott, a Bronze Medalist in the Van Cliburn Competition, will be heard on June 10 performing, among other works, Chopin's monumental Sonata No. 3 for Piano in B Minor. David Maroz, one of Canada's premiere pianists, will appear with Steven Staryk on Tuesday, June 11, in Mozart's Piano Quartet in G Minor, K. 478.

Tickets for the series of six concerts are $90; individual tickets are $12 for chamber music performance and $18 for orchestral concerts. Tickets are available from Do Re Mi Music, 625-5238 or 625-1229 or from central and northern California Bass ticketing outlets. Further information about the Festival may be obtained by writing Mozart in Monterey, Mail Box 410, 177 Webster Street, Monterey,

THEATER REVIEW

By James P. Kinney

Polished Lillian Hellman portrayal at Cherry Hall

"I AM NOT a good-natured woman," the trim matron in the Chanel-type suit warns her audience shortly after she appears onstage. No, but as interesting as a two-legged cyclone.

The year is 1961. In a New York hospital waiting room American playwright Lillian Hellman, in her mid-fifties, looks back on the events of her turbulent, eventful life. If this were a play about a political figure, it might be Margaret Thatcher up there sorting through her memories.

ROSAMOND GOODRICH portrays playwright Lillian Hellman in the one-woman show staged at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel. Nick Zanides directs.

Dashiell Hammett, Hellman's long-time companion and the person she credits with "teasing me into writing all those plays," is dying. Their relationship, like much of her life, has been a bittersweet journey and this tough-minded lady of the theater spares nobody, least of all herself, as she looks back on the relationships, the achievements, the high and low points of the best-known and respected American woman dramatist of the 20th century.

"He liked casual ladies," she murmurs with a hint of vinegar in her voice and of fire in her eye, recalling candidly and graphically a few of Hammet's infidelities while hinting she might have engineered a few of her own.

There are perceptive, often humorous anecdotes of other famous public figures as well — of Dorothy Parker ("best woman friend I ever had"), Ernest Hemingway, Senator Joe McCarthy ("a bully"), actress Tallulah Bankhead, and the famous lawyer and later Supreme Court Justice, Abe Fortas.

She talks about her days growing up angry in New Orleans. She hated the maternal side of her family and their preoccupation with money. "Everything was measured in exact dollar amounts," she recalls acidly about long-ago family dinners "full of open ill will."

But there are also fond memories of an understanding father, of a comforting fig tree which served as a childhood chum and in which she learned to read, of the time she ran away to the red light section of New Orleans and met some of the ingratiating ladies of the evening. She recalls a few black women from whom she developed a life-long empathy for the poor and the marginalized, a trait which clearly energized her later plays.

One powerful scene, after intermission, recreates her gutsy appearance before the infamous House Un-American Activities Committee during the McCarthy Era. Recorded voices over and courtroom sounds and lights effectively re-create the atmosphere of fear and intimidation foisted on private citizens when anti-Communism turned into Fascism before the eyes of dismayed Americans. Hellman's subtle warning is clear, "Americans, beware! If could always happen again." You mean like now, Lillian, in the 1990s, with all this patriotic fervor and militaristic fever and all? Naw! W-e -l-l-l-l-l-l...

Veteran local actress Rosamond Goodrich gives a tight, often under-stated portrayal of the crusty, complex woman who was Lillian Hellman. "Suffering is a private matter," she shrugs as she glosses over some of her darker memories.

Ms. Goodrich, here directed by Nick Zanides, shows an appealing gift for humor and mimicry to add to her already well-known stage discipline and carefully-sculpted characterizations.

She gives a hilarious re-creation of the famous Tallulah's deep voice and outrageous theatricality, pulls up from somewhere a heavy "Naw-lens" drawl as the long-departed Southern relatives and explodes in a fiery re-enactment of her early morning encounter with one of Hammet's "casual ladies."

Sum-up: a solid performance from one of our area's finest actresses.

Costuming by Gloria Hughes; scene design by Ruth Jordan Allan; lights by Philip Pratt; make-up by Randolph Rock; properties by Ivan (Cap'n Andy) Flansburg; stage managing by Marilyn Smith; house managing by Georgette Bloomer.

High school students win at sculpture

WHAT DO YOU do with one pound of wax? Art students at Monterey, Seaside, and Salinas High Schools have turned lumps of wax into creative works of art in a Sculpture Competition sponsored by the Monterey County Cultural Council and the Monterey Sculpture Center. According to Larry Fischer, owner of the Monterey Sculpture Center, the purpose of the competition was to encourage art students to explore the possibilities of working in 3-dimension.

The winners from each of these schools will have their sculptures cast in bronze and placed on display at the Monterey Sculpture Center Gallery. Participating schools may also tour the Sculpture Center and its foundry and observe the process involved in bronze casting.

The winners of the competition are: Oliver Mateo, Steven Russell, and Bernard Harris, Seaside High School; Mikel Avery, Aaron Shafman, and Ignacio Sanchez, Monterey High School; Geraldo Hernandez, George Ortega, and Allan Payonayong, Salinas High School.

A reception honoring the winners and the participants will take place on Friday, June 7 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Monterey Sculpture Center, 718 Redwood Ave., Sand City. The public is invited to attend.

Monterey High School Art teacher Becka Hicks said that some students have not been exposed to three-dimensional sculpture before. This experience provided them with an opportunity to study the concept of space and the processes involved in producing it. At Seaside High School, according to teacher Joan Wethington, the students were so enthusiastic about the competition that they worked on their projects during lunch times and vacation. David Larisen, art teacher at Salinas High School, said that the students studied Greek bronzes and modern sculpture as part of the process.

Gallery One is two

ANGELS in the Sky, an acrylic by Mary Moore, is among the featured paintings at Gallery One in Big Sur. An opening reception is set to begin at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 9, and will feature performances by singer/songwriter Heather Secord and a quartet composed of Margaret Faulkner, amy Krupski, Joseph Cavanaugh and Steve Payne. The reception honors the second anniversary of Gallery One, which is located on Highway 1 at Pheneger Creek in Big Sur. For details, call 667-2600.

The Book Tree

And what a delightful place. Owner Anna Binicos: "So many publishers shoot at the lowest common denominator. We're proudest of bypassing dross and finding the real gems in various fields." The former librarian's special fun? "Tracking down older things for people, getting to know these readers, sharing their enthusiasms. There's never a fee for the detective work. And our Special Order Service - anything in print - is quick."

New books, of course. Sale titles. Rather special emphases on psychology, women's studies, photography, literary classics. At 118 Webster near Monterey Post Office. Hours: 10-5:30 Monday through Friday; 11-5 Saturdays. 373-0228. Vibrant atmosphere.

Britannica
LEARNING CENTER
formerly The Reading Game

Purpose expressed by Director Phyllis Stebbins: "To foster the true love of reading". Those who work with the Center's experienced teachers, incentive programs, brilliant methods - from pre-school youngsters to busy business people - end up reading faster and better and so much more. On average, just 48 hours of instruction = a year's academic growth. Individual testing, goal-setting, schedule design.

Call today for a truly life-changing appointment - 372-2090. Convenient Monterey location: 200 Camino Aguajito... Suite 201.

An independently-owned franchise. Program proven since 1970. And committed to the joyous practicality of graceful reading.

CARMEL BOOK EMPORIUM - This area's newest bookshop emphasizes high quality and 60 sections (ultimately 100) and a big stone fireplace round which folks may browse contentedly. Manager Anne Congleton and assistant Laurie Peck promise computerized ordering that assures "the best possible turnaround time."

Anne and Laurie give special attention to mysteries, creative writing, the lively arts - and of course the tops in contemporary fiction. Videos include such special contexts as Oscar-winning Best Pictures over the past 20 years. And PBS productions. And music tapes and CDs (local players too). Before long, Carmel Book Emporium will add a cafe - perfect meeting spot.

On Lobos Lane in The Crossroads (a few steps from Safeway). Open 10-6 Sunday/Thursday; 10-8 Friday/Saturday. 626-BOOK.

CONCEPTS 'N PUBLISHING - A new publishing house in Pacific Grove announces "with creative sense of purpose" a new book by Zominique Masters. It's Soul of the Heavens - which addresses terribly difficult questions with admirable grace and simplicity.

Abortion? Why does our world contain so much crime and unrest? Why does a merciful God allow all that human suffering? Suicide? Reincarnation? If you've ever struggled with these issues, let the incisive author guide your quest. She's a traveler who spends time on the Monterey Peninsula (no stranger, then, to locals).

Simply send $12.95 (plus $3 shipping and handling) to Concepts 'N Publishing; P.O.Box 51185, Pacific Grove 93950. The first 100 orders will get free shipping/handling. A necessary book.

EDUCATIONAL STUFF, INC. - It's true. Literally thousands of learning tools for youngsters from infancy to middle school age. Developmental toys, all kinds of books, science materials, flash cards, art supplies, puzzles, teaching aids, rewards, and so on.

Ex-teacher Barbara Vantress has had the facinating spot for 11 years. Her commitments inspire the daily workways of all staff members - " each is trained to consult and recommend," says Barbara.

"Now's the perfect time to find the right projects and support materials for summer. Prices are low to moderate - and customers always get personalized service with full product guarantees."

If you'd like one of the bright no-cost Educational Stuff catalogues, call 1-422-5044. Address: 908-1/2 South Main in Salinas. Packed with examples of excellence in research, design, overall purpose.

FACES OF JAZZ - Brilliant jazz photographer Lee Tanner has a fine track record. Major shows. An upcoming exhibit in conjunction with this year's Monterey Jazz Festival. And he's a marketing pioneer. Now available:

- Portfolio of eight 13 x 15 black-and-white prints - Monk, Chet Baker, Johnny Hodges, Zoot Sims, Dexter, Coleman Hawkins, Milt Jackson, Art Blakely. Superb work; ready for framing. $14.95 + $2 mailing and handling.
- Book of standard-size postcards. 30 shots. To send or keep. $7.95 + $1.50.
- Jazz address book. 40 prints; space for 480 entries. $14.95 + $1.50. 7 x 8-1/4.

All produced by high-quality Pomegranate Artbooks. Info: (415) 524-3661. Mail orders: PO Box 8236, Berkeley,CA 94707.

Critic Bob Blumenthal: "Tanner's photographs capture the heat of jazz creation as well as a musician's contemplative side."

PEBBLE BEACH facilities come out on top in a new book that rates regional golf courses.

Golfing Northern California evaluates 112 courses from Outstanding to Poor. Author Tim Keyser's an avid golfer, of course, who says his research came to more than 1,000 hours and 14,000 miles driven.

"Accurate and detailed notes were kept," his Introduction declares. "Each golf course was visited, played and photographed. Each course was rated (on a scale of 1-100) before the next course was played."

The coffee table book's price—$29.95. It comes from Pelican Publishing in Louisiana and may be ordered via your favorite bookshop.

Standards of judgment included overall appeal, design and variety, scenery, overall difficulty, greens difficulty, overall condition, greens condition, hazards, cosmetics. He studied and rated "the quality of golf received for the money paid."

The 10 best courses: Spyglass Hill (100), Poppy Hills (99), Pebble Beach (98). Canyon Lakes in San Ramon (98), Fountaingrove in Santa Rosa (96), Pasatiempo of Santa Cruz (94), Chardonnay in Napa (94), Rancho Murietta North (93), Spanish Bay Links of Pebble Beach (92), Half Moon Bay (90).

At roster's bottom: Lone Tree in Antioch (19), Lew Galbraith in Oakland (17), Green Tree of Vacaville (11), Jackson Lakes in Lemoore (9).

Keyser's 208-page book carries descriptions of the courses. Greens fees, addresses and phone numbers, men's and women's pars, walkability—covered therein.

THREE-IN-ONE: Peter Danielson, Geraldine Saunders, Melanie Daniels. All will speak Saturday (6/8) at a meeting of Romance Writers of America's Monterey Bay Chapter. Those pen names belong to none other than peninsula pro George Warren, who will tell the group about the business side of writing.

The 10:30-noon program will be held at Pajaro Valley Bank (655 Main) in Watsonville following the regular monthly meeting and registration. Spokespersons Bonnie Hamre and Suzanne Barrett encourage "all writers to attend both the general meeting and the workshop." Cost—$5.

Warren's first book was sold in 1974. Since then he has published in nearly all the popular genres—science fiction, espionage, western, romance, mystery.

HAVING ONCE HAD A VISION OF THE GODDESS KALI

I can bear the dark beauty of your silence,
I can even live my life without you,
but after that,
When I've learned to love the earth
as I've loved you,
When I've embraced all races
as one people,
raised children and grown old,
When I've stayed sober to the end of my days,
After a life of good works,
then,
Can I see you again?
Can I touch your hair?
And most of all,
Can I watch you dance
Your interstellar dance?

—Mahesh, Pacific Grove

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Woody Allen of jazz

BRIGHT GIGS: Dave Frishberg, the witty and nostalgia-loving Woody Allen of jazz, will perform at two local sites next week.

First, the songwriter-pianist-singer will appear at Shanty Malone's of Valley Hills Center on Tuesday evening (6/11) from 7-11. Working with Dave during his visit: trumpet man Jim Goodwin. Public info coordinator Bob Phillips reports a Shanty's door charge of $5 per.

At eight o'clock Wednesday night (6/12), Dave will head up the entertainment roster at Church of Religious Science near the Sheraton in downtown Monterey. It's $8 apiece.

Pianists Phillips and Andrew Fielding will open the latter occasion.

"Then Dave and Jim come on for the back half," Bobby says.

SEEMS LIKE Tim Jackson has no notion of coasting. Seems like he understands that clear involvement with this music gives one energy rather than draining it off.

Even cave-dwellers and ivory tower types know so by now: Tim was appointed co-producer for next year's Monterey Jazz Festival. And in 1993, following the retirement of Jimmy Lyons, Jackson will take over as general manager.

What about his longtime post as honcho over at Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz? The summer lineup demonstrates continued creativity and dedication.

Like this. Nat Adderley Quintet (6/17), Brazilian reedman Hermeto Pascoal (6/24), Milt Jackson Quartet (7/8), Mose Allison (7/15), Marcus Roberts (7/22), Hal Galper Trio (7/29), Harper Brothers (8/5), Clark Terry (8/12), Lester Bowie's Brass Fantasy (8/19). Wow and double wow.

What a fine mix of real giants and fiery younger players. Major festival broken up into weekly increments.

Clark Terry's among the great gentlemen of jazz. History, intelligence, kindness. It will be a real pleasure to see and hear him again.

The Kuumbwa show on Monday night (6/10)—Steve Erquiaga Band. This guitarist has worked a lot with steel drummer Andy Narell as well as with Joe Henderson and Les McCann. Saxist Bob Sheppard will be on the gig.

Starts at eight o'clock. Just $10 per. Center Stage Ticketing.

HOMETOWN PRODUCT Ray Drummond has two new CDs out under his contract with the DMP label. Both deserve your attention.

One package again puts Ray together in a duo situation with fine pianist Bill Mays. Standards. Originals by the pair. Title: One to One 2.

The other represents trio jazz at its best—Ray plus Hank Jones and Billy Higgins. Ellington, Golson, Mercer and Mandel, Gershwin, Jimmy van Heusen, two things written by Ray. These three take familiar tunes to sweet heights. Rightfully called The Essence.

Drummond will be part of the all-star crew on Friday night (6/7) when Gunther Schuller conducts the Mingus Epitaph at San Francisco's Davies Hall. Eight o'clock kick. Ticketmaster, Wherehouse, Tower Records.

Joining Ray in the 30-member orchestra will be several other musicians from the original Lincoln Center performance and recording: Snooky Young, Randy Brecker, Lou Soloff, George Adams, Victor Lewis, Britt Woodman, John Abercrombie.

Not given to stupid statements, Schuller calls these 18 movements "the most important prophetic statement in the history of jazz." Widow Sue Mingus let musicologists study scores left behind by the massive figure. Their patient discovery of compositional unities led to a weaving effect. Epitaph.

This West Coast premiere highlights the current Masters Series of Randall Kline at Jazz in the City.

NEW SHOWS were announced by boss man Gil Wisdom of Carmel's KRML Jazz Radio (1410AM).

Saturday afternoons, Dave Kimball hosts a big band offering from 4:00-5:00. Dave's an experienced media producer who now puts out a monthly publication covering the social dance scene.

And Travelin' Dan has moved over from KSCO Radio with his trad jazz library. It's 1:00-2:00 on Sunday afternoons.

THE SEASON of sweet jaunts. Fun as the sun and moon wash all. Let's look at some off-peninsula doings that might tickle your fancy:

The beautiful Filoli Mansion (on Canada Road in Woodside) hosts a jazz series on Saturday afternoons. Latest booking (6/8)—Benny Barth and the Grand Masters. From 1:30-4:00; tickets at $25 apiece may be odered via (415) 364-8300. Doors open at 12:30, giving plenty of time to wander in exquisite gardens.

Drummer Benny's crew offers swinging tunes from the '30s and '40s. Pee Wee Claybrook (tenor), Bill Perkins (bery), John Coppola (trumpet), Tee Carson (piano), Al Obidinski (bass), Sweetie Mitchell (special guest vocalist). Ducats include drinks and snacks; Bud Spangler of KJAZ Radio moderates question-and-answer sessions between listeners and players.

Villa Montalvo in Saratoga books clarinet virtuoso Richard Stoltzman and his Innervoices Combo—great jazz bassist Eddie Gomez and Bill Douglas (piano, bassoon)—on Friday night (6/7). Artist John Pearson, who has been presenting "visual concerts" with Stoltzman for 17 years, will offer slides "built around the trio's music."

Specific site: Garden Theater. Through Ticketmaster at $26 per. Stoltzman and Innervoices also will appear at the Regional Arts Center in Walnut Creek (6/12)—(415) 943-SHOW.

Later this month (6/18-21 AND 6/23), Yoshi's of Oakland will offer the trio fronted by guitarist John McLaughlin. With the truly amazing percussionist Trilok Gurtu and bassist Dominique DiPiazza—10 shows spread over the five evenings.

Check Ticketmaster. It's $20 or $25 per depending upon the night you choose.

Ducats still available for Sunday's performance (6/9). Paul Masson Summer Series issues that word on the appearance of George Benson and Diane Reeves.

As you likely know, the concert site's a knockout—old stone winery in the hills above Saratoga. Seven o'clock start and $30 apiece via Ticketmaster.

Some other Masson acts: Mirian Makeba (6/18), Take 6 (7/16), Robert Cray (7/26-28), Wynton Marsalis and Marcus Roberts (8/1-3).

The no-cost Stern Grove Midsummer Music Festival in San Francisco this year includes Preservation Hall Jazz Band (6/23) and the Duke Ellington Orchestra under son Mercer's direction (8/18).

SIGHT BITES: Ace Jazz Buff Corky Corkum of Carmel says he saw the myth-sized Nellie Lutcher in performance at a small club in south Los Angeles. "The 83-year-old lady sounded just great, playing her piano and singing Nellie standards. She's not there every weekend—just once in a while—and works with a bass player. Something should be done to proclaim her a national treasure."

At Doc Ricketts' Lab on Monday night (6/10)—blues harmonica master Charlie Musselwhite. Also Del Rey and the Blues Gators from Santa Cruz. Center Stage Ticketing.

Sunday's group in the Monterey Plaza Hotel jazz series (6/9)—Papa Jake and those Abalone Stompers. Freebie from noon till four on the outdoor terrace. Full bar service and food available.

Monterey Bay Club: Roger Eddy (6/7-8), pianist Alan Berman with bassist Steve Burstyn (6/9), Jack and Ed Show (6/10-11), Alan and Steve (6/12), Kevin Feeney (6/13-14).

Trumpet man Al Hirt and comic Pat Paulsen share the bill on Friday night (6/7) at Sherwood Hall in Salinas. It's the Great Performances Series.

Noted gospel and soul singer Odia Coates Givins has died in Oakland. Age 49. Her passing followed a long battle with breast cancer. A Mississippi minister's daughter, she got her professional start with the Edwin Hawkins Singers. Odia toured a lot with Paul Anka; she was the female voice on the Anka hit single Having My Baby.

Artists-in-Schools program registration set

THE MONTEREY COUNTY Cultural Council is now accepting registration for its 1991-92 Professional-Artists-in-Schools Program. The program is an extended hands-on, creative arts experience for elementary school children throughout Monterey County. Professional artists conduct workshops with the students in a very specific art discipline which the artist practices. Children explore their own creativity, experimenting in different media and with different methods, resulting in an awareness of their own creative abilities.

The program offerings include:

1. 12-hour intensives, which feature in-depth, creative hands-on art experiences geared to one classroom. These include visual arts, such as weaving, sculpture, clay and mixed-media, and performing and literary arts.

2. Arts Exposures, which will be similar to the regular 12-hour program but the hours can be divided among two or three classes at the same grade level.

3. Combined Group Art, where two or three classes at the same grade level can be combined for 12 hours of large group activity, usually in the performing arts.

4. Assemblies, Lectures and Demonstrations (Pilot Program)— Several performing artists, as well as visual and literary artists, will be available for assembly programs, lectures and demonstrations for all or part of the whole school.

The fees for the program varies. A limited number of subsidized projects are available. For an information flyer and registration form, contact the Monterey County Cultural Council at P.O. Box 246, Salinas, 93902 or call 424-3043.

CRITIC AT LARGE

By Mac McDonald

Mac is back

RON HOWARD'S Backdraft may be the number one movie in the country, pulling in $9.1 million at the box office last week (for a two-week gross of $28.2 million), but guess what movie snuck into the top 10 over the weekend?

That's right, Mac is back: Macauley Culkin and his Home Alone pulled in $1.42 million in its 29th week in distribution, for a grand total so far of $273.4 million...and growing. Stores are already selling pre-orders for the videocassette version of the film, but judging by its recent box office receipts, this film still has legs at the movie theater.

Rounding out the Top 10 were: No. 2, Sally Field and Kevin Kline's new frothy satire, Soapdish ($6.7 million); What About Bob? is showing amazing staying power at number three with a take of $6.4 million; Ridley Scott's critically acclaimed Thelma & Louise with Geena Davis and Susan Saradon drove off with a $4.2 mil take; John "Home Alone" Hughes/Chris Columbus' new John Candy comedy, Only the Lonely drew $3.6 million for fifth; Bruce Willis' Hudson Hawk is quickly sinking into the sunset with $3.1 million last week for sixth place; Phoebe Cates stars in Drop Dead Fred, which pulled in a mere $2.4 million; FX2 is hanging in at eighth place with $1.5 mil; followed by Home Alone and Brian "The Boz" Bozworth's biker flick, Stone Cold holding down the 10th spot.

Watch out this weekend, though, because Billy Crystal's long-awaited new comedy City Slickers is due to hit the screens on Friday. Advance word is very high on this film and it could even beat out the much-ballyhooed blockbusters on the horizon, including Kevin Costner's new epic Robin Hood and Arnold Schwarzenegger's high bucks Terminator 2, which is said to be the most costliest film ever made (at last count $80 million and rising).

This year's summer movie season promises to be the busiest yet, with more than 55 films slated to open from now until Labor Day, compared to 35 last year. This year, however, there's less emphasis on over-amped action and special effects, thanks to the success of last year's Ghost and Home Alone and costly "failures" such as Days of Thunder, RoboCop 2 and Another 48 Hours.

So far this summer season has one hit, one flop and one that's shaping into a major hit, respectively, Backdraft, Hudson Hawk and Thelma & Louise. Stay tuned for further developments.

THE 12TH Annual Redwood Mountain Faire, set for Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9 at Highlands County Park in Ben Lomond in the Santa Cruz Mountains, features a stellar lineup.

For 8 bucks each day you can enjoy the likes of: Charlie Musselwhite, The Dinosaurs with Papa John Creech, Country Joe McDonald, Ramblin' Jack Elliot, Maria Muldaur & Band, Lydia Pense & Cold Blood, Peter Rowan & The Free Mexican Air Force, as well as local perfomers, Pele Juju, The Harmony Grits, Ras Nathan & House Of Fire, Mary McCaslin, Giny Mitchell & Steve Kritzer, Lady Bo & the Family Jewel, and del Rey and the Blues Gators.

The event also features arts and crafts, food, musical competitions, musical workshops and children and family entertainment. There's no charge for children 12 and under accompanied by an adult.

For more info, call 338-7829 or 764-1059.

AS LONG as we're on the subject of Charlie Musselwhite and Del Rey & the Blues Gators, they'll both be appearing on the Monterey Peninsula next week.

Del Rey and band open for Musselwhite, the great Chicago blues harp player, at 9 p.m. Monday, June 10 at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row. Tickets are $10.

Musselwhite is making a return engagement to Doc's, after a well-received set last December. He's got a great new album on the blues-base Alligator label, Ace of Harps, and even appears on rock superstars INXS' new album, playing, what else?, harmonica.

For more information on the show, call Doc's at 649-4241.

HERE'S THE lineup for this year's Monterey Bay Blues Festival, which is slated for Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23, at the Monterey Fairgrounds. Performances will be held at both the Garden and Main stages, with the garden Stage show open to both reserved seat ticketholders as well as those with Grounds Admission tickets, and Main Stage shows for reserved seat ticketholders only.

Saturday June 22, the 12:30 p.m. afternoon show: Paul Soderman, Bobby Rush, Johnny Heartsman Revue and John Mayall. Saturday, 7 p.m. show: Otis Clay, Clarence Carter and Betty Wright. Sunday, June 22 a 12:45 p.m. start: Robben Ford, Ester Jones, Charles Brown, Dr. John, and Etta James.

By far Sunday night's show is the most powerful with nary a weak link, starting with Robben Ford's accessible fusion-blues; Ester Jones, Charles Brown's classy, smooth-as-silk singing and piano playing; Dr. John's rollicking Louisiana .gumbo; and Etta James' kick-butt, down-and-dirty blues Saturday's early show could be the weekend's most intriguing, a blue collar blues fan's blues show, from relative newcomer Soderman to Father of British Blues, John Mayall, who was the best thing about the blues festival about three years

And by far Saturday evening's 's show is the most disposable, except perhaps for little-known but seminal R&B pioneer Otis Clay, who, like Charles Brown, is making a comeback of sorts. A variety of ticket packages are available, including box seats for the entire weekend, but I'd suggest opting for Sunday if you can attend only one and Saturday afternoon as a second choice. As for Saturday night, check out Otis Clay by all means, but my suggestion is to check out the action on the Garden Stage for the next two acts, the tired Clarence Carter and the Nast-as-she-wants-to-be Betty Wright. For ticket information call 394-2652.

BURLY BILL'S - Family prices for breakfast, lunch and dinner make this downtown Monterey restaurant extremely popular. Daily specials, pies, pastas, delicious soups...all homemade. Burgers, shakes. Fresh salad bar and a truly cheerful atmosphere. You'll find the portions generous...owners Bill and Joann respect how hard folks work for their money. 400 Tyler (corner of Tyler and Franklin).

CARMEL MUSIC CO.- Come meet Dexter Johnson...luthier. That's the time-honored job title worn by makers of stringed instruments. Dexter offers hand-crafted guitars and mandolins along with new and used Martins, Gibsons, Santa Cruz models, Taylors. All band instruments, banjos, music needs. You'll never experience sales pressure at this deeply interesting shop on Dolores near Fifth in downtown Carmel. 624-8078. Workshops and master classes announced through this newspaper.

DOC RICKETTS' LAB - Monterey County's only major showcase featuring famous rock, jazz, blues, and country acts. Wynton Marsalis, Kris Kristofferson, Chris Issak, and John Mayall have performed at Doc's. Weekends ther's never a cover charge when you dance to quality rock bands. An intimate club with Monterey County's only professional sound and light system. Full-service bar and a friendly staff to serve you. Located in Cannery Row at 95 Prescott. Call 649-4241 for more information.

HELLAM'S TOBACCO SHOP- The Hellam family has been in this same business since 1892. And what a fascinating place. Tobacco products and pipes from all over the world. Rare gift items, joke gifts and tricks, adult party items. Lee Hellam and his staff take plenty of time with customers while consulting on fine tobaccos and, for another example, pipe care and supplies. Stop by and browse...it's a fun-packed stop on anyone's shopping trip. 423 Alvarado in downtown Monterey.

OUT ON THE TOWN

DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT

(Note: This peninsula corrects itself. Boomers and users don't last long. We met with advertisers who keep honesty and enjoyment of what they do as primary values.)

SHANTY MALONE'S - Prize-winning chef Ken Weeks and delightful wife Victoria make the most of this beautiful room and Carmel Valley setting. California/Continental Cuisine will satisfy, indoors or out on the romantic deck. Live music nightly - jazz, European classical, blue grass. Beer, wine, espresso. Closer Than Ever GroveMont's Monterey Playhouse will be the setting for the Saturday, June 8 opening gala of Closer Than Ever. The award-winning team of Richard Maltby, Jr. and David Shire deliver this musical journey through the human comedy of urban life. Patrick Spike directs the GroveMont production. The cast includes Laura Akard, John Newkirk and Nancy Larner. Music is supplied by Rosanna Yadegari and Kathy Nathan.

Hors d'oeuvres will be served at 7 p.m. Saturday at GroveMont's Monterey Playhouse, 425 Washington St., downtown Monterey. The performance begins at 8 p.m. and a reception buffet follows at 10. Admission to the opening gala is $20 for singles, $35 for two.

For reservations, call 649-6852.

'Closer Than Ever'

Spring Festival of Plays

The Children's Experimental Theatre, Inc. presents its annual gift to the community, The Spring Festival of Plays. For additional information, call 624-1531.

Lillian

Nick Zanides directs Rosamond Goodrich in the one-woman play, Lillian, at the Cherry Foundation in Carmel. The Monterey Peninsula College production will play at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, with 2 p.m. matinees Sundays through June 22.

Written by William Luce, the play is based on the autobiographical writings of Lillian Hellman. The play presents a sensitive, revealing portrait of one of theater's immortals. Hellman's feisty, combative persona and the compassionate, humorous woman known only to her friends and family are captured in the work.

As Lillian sits in the waiting room of a New York hospital where her long-time companion, Dashiell Hammett, lies near death, she reflects on her relationship with the writer, and her own life, from childhood to her days as artist and public figure committed to liberal causes. She recalls the people and incidents that have shaped her life, glittery figures from Hollywood and the New York theater, literary giants and beloved personal associates.

Tickets for Lillian are $8 general and $6 for students, military and senior citizens. They can be reserved through Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum

The 1991 Monterey Bay TheatreFest, a community outreach program of the GroveMont 'Theater, has begun in the "Big Top" tent erected in Monterey's Custom House Plaza. The tent is the setting for the musical, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, by Burt Shevlove, Larry Gelbart and Stephen Sondheim. Forum marries the illogicalities of ancient Roman farce with the zany nonsense of vaudeville. It won a Tony Award for best musical/best book.

The production runs 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays until June 22.

Tent show prices are $10 general, $8 for students and senior citizens, and $5 for children under 12 and GroveMont Season Ticket Holders. The "Big Top" is located in the Upper Custom House Plaza t the top of Fisherman's Wharf on the waterfront in Monterey.

For more information or tickets, call 649-6852 or 649-5561.

Bye, Bye Birdie

This family musical is directed by Barney Hulse and staged at the Wharf Theatre, located on Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey.

Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays through June 16.

Rendlen's art shown at Evans Gallery

The work of Branham Rendlen, Big Sur artist, will hang in the Marjorie Evans Gallery during the month of June. Her work consists primarily of paintings on paper and pencil drawings.

Rendlen's paintings and drawings are a visual fantasy-scape drawn from dreams, visions and imagination. This work creates a feast of symbols, imagery, color and form. Her works tell the visual story of a lifelong transformational journey of heart, mind and spirit.

Rendlen moved to the Big Sur area five years ago after receiving her master's degree in printmaking from the University of Kansas. She has taught art and printmaking on community and college levels and has been a working artist for many years, evolving from her first love and medium of printmaking to painting and drawing. In addition to Rendlen's one-woman exhibit in the Evans Gallery, she has had five other solo shows and has participated in numerous juried and invitational exhibitions.

A reception for the artist will be held in the gallery on Friday, June 7, from 5 until 7 p.m.

The Marjorie Evans Gallery, a part of the Sunset Cultural Center in Carmel, is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The Center is located on San Carlos Street between Eighth and10th.

FINE PENINSULA PROPERTIES

"Vista Serena"

A dramatic Mediterranean styled villa nestled in the hills of majestic Bay Ridge with an enormous sun-drenched terrace and spectacular, unobstructed oceanviews unfolding from dawn to dusk from most rooms. There are thirty-five foot soaring ceilings in the gigantic and stunning livingroom encircled by brass-railed balconies above. Lavish use of marble and granite, gleaming hardwood floors, crown moldings, old world French windows and superb craftsmanship blend together with fine architectural design. Also, separate guest or servant's wing with full bath. Elegant mable foyer. Absolutely dynamic! Priced right at $1,950,000.

On the Golf Course at Quail Lodge

This home is remarkably private, yet open, spacious and walled by interior glass. The living room and formal dining room share spectacular views of the enchanting pond and golf course setting on a generous, private courtyard. The master suite has a glass wall, yet is discreetly landscaped to maintain privacy on the golf course and mirrored walls reflect the lush garden setting providing a "natural mural." A sunny, skylighted breakfast room adjoins the up-to-date kitchen where you will find a unique limestone floor and new top-grade appliances. In all, there are three bedrooms, two baths and a powder room, including a marbled master bath. Absolutely charming! Priced at $895,000.

Sprawling Ranch Estate

This beautiful Mediterranean home offers five bedrooms, family room, formal dining room and four baths plus powder room. A fabulous kitchen, handcrafted walk-in bar and four fireplaces are just some of the outstanding feaures. Off the three-car garage is a "prohibition-style" saloon complete with hand-crafted bar and a billiard table. It is surrounded by twenty lush acres of lawns, vineyards, gardens of roses, wisteria and various plants, apple, pear, fig, plum, lemon, almond and poplar trees. Plenty of water is provided by a private well in addition to Cal-Am. There is a solar heating system, also. This level land borders the Carmel River and Garland Ranch and is perfect for horse and /or dog lovers. This estate is even more complete with a swimming pool equipped with a Jacuzzi and caretaker's house (one bedroom, living room, kitchenette, and bath). Completely fenced and gated - this is a rare find for: Asking $1,390,000.

"Chateau Nuage"

Majestically situated on a one and three-quarter acre site above the hills of exclusive Bay Ridge, an elite gated and guarded community. From the breathtaking vantage point above the bay, spectacular unobstructed ocean views unfold from dawn to dusk. The magnificent master suite affords privacy, as well as a large his and her's shower, ovesized tub, fireplace and Mediterranean tile appointments. A library with built-in bookshelves offers the ideal retreat. The open floor plan of the living and dining areas include three additional fireplaces, and lend themselves to gracious entertaining as well as family life. On a separate wing are two additional bedrooms, each with its own bathroom, offering plenty of space for family and guests. Below the main level of the home are fully self-contained guest quarters, including a fireplace, living room, bedroom and bath. The imposing wrought iron gates through which you enter the villa opens up to a three car garage, flanked by a wrought iron fence and protected by a security system. Priced at $1,750,000.

Pebble Beach Tudor Estate

Situated on approximately one acre, this fine brand new country manor home has been custom built for its present owner. There are two maser suites with bay windows and adjoining study, plus two more generous size bedrooms, a formal dining room. There are a total of four fireplaces, wainscotting, crown moldings, marble tile in the foyer and also in the three bedrooms, including the powder room. The roof is slate like tile and the appliances are all top of the line. The floors are solid oak and some areas are covered with high grade carpeting. The windows are Anderson and are vinyl coated. Upstairs we have an artist studio or library and there is room downstairs for a total separate guest apartment. Of course there is a three car garage and there are too many appointments to mention here, so please give us a call for a private showing. Irreplaceable at $1,600,000.

Jack's Peak

Unparalled ocean views! Top of the world-minutes to everywhere-solitude-majestic views-sunshine. Uncomparable five acre estate site with existing home. No building moratorium on this exquisite property and experience the serenity while you create your own perfect design. Asking $1,350,000. Just call Herma!

Pebble Beach

180 degree ocean view house priced at only $795,000 for quick sale. This better than new, only three year old second home has rarely been occupied by its out-of-town owners. We have three bedrooms, two baths plus powder room, family room, formal dining room and breakfast room. One of the best buys in the area, vacant, immediate possession.

Pacific Grove Townhouse

Near Pebble Beach in the exclusive gated community of Glenheights, this has been a second home, rarely occupied by its doting owners who have invested in substantial upgrades. The unique and exceptionally well-designed 2100 sq. ft. include: 3 bedrooms, 2.5 baths, a dream kitchen, a sunken alcove surrounded by bay windows, living/dining room with firelace, formal entry and a peak of the ocean. Also a 2-car garage. Seeing is belieiving...their loss is your gain! Priced well at $385,000.

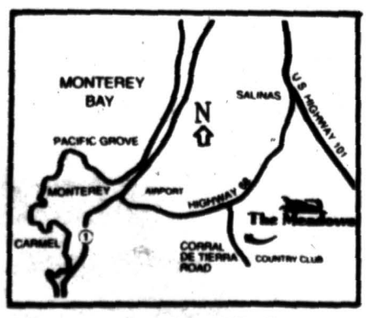
TO A PREVIEW SHOWING OF THE NEW CAREFREE HOMES OF

The Meadows
AT CORRAL DE TIERRA

A New Standard of Homes...A New Standard of Lifestyle

There are many communities on the beautiful Monterey Peninsula, but only one sets a new standard of excellence for architecture and lifestyle. That community is The Meadows at Corral de Tierra. Here, behind a gated entry, you will find five contemporary classic homes with timeless architecture and standard features found only in custom-built homes costing far more.



Take Hwy. 68 to Corral De Tierra Road. Turn on to Corral De Tierra Road, ¼ mile to The Meadows sign on the left.

At The Meadows you can choose from single or two-story floor plans ranging in size from approximately 2,000-3,000 square feet. All models have 3 or 4 bedrooms and either have or allow for a sitting room next to the master bedroom. All models come complete with designer appliances, 2 fireplaces, recessed lighting and polished brass bath fixtures.

At The Meadows, these homes are designed to live in harmony with nature as more than half of the land is reserved for park-like open space. In addition, a complete recreational clubhouse, swimming pool, 4 tennis courts, barbecue area and walking paths are reserved for the pleasure of all home owners.

So don't wait, take advantage of our pre-Grand Opening prices.

Sales Office Open Daily 11:00 to 5:00 p.m. 484-1114

Another Quality Community of New Cities Development Group

CAREFREE LIVING

THE MEADOWS of Corral de Tierra Phases III and IV, has created a special planned community of contemporary classic homes designed to live in harmony with nature.

Behind the secured gated entry you will discover a pastoral community that offers spectacular mountain views as well as views of the renowned Corral de Tierra Golf and Country Club.

The Meadows offers many common facilities consisting of a recreational center, swimming pool, barbeque area, four tennis courts, walking paths, a secured R.V. parking lot, and an abundance of open space.

There are five individually designed home styles from which to choose. Each home has been carefully designed with timeless architecture and standard custom feaures usually found only in custom-built homes costing far more.

Choose from single or two-story floor plans ranging in size from approximately 2,000 to 3,000 square feet. All models have 3 or 4 bedrooms and have or allow for a sitting room next to the master bedroom. Some standard feaures found in every home include jetted tubs in the master baths, Whirlpool Designer Appliances, oak cabinetry, recessed lighting throughout, polished brass fixtures in all baths; and at least two woodburning fireplaces. These are just a few of the many features offered.

The local award-winning architectural firm of Fletcher & Hardoin have designed the new homes at The Meadows. The models will be created and furnished by award-winning designer Elizabeth Foote, president of Grand Design, Newport Beach. CA Her design themes will include art objects and one-of-a-kind antiques from the firm's $3 million collection. The Meadows of Corral de Tierra is being developed by New Cities Deveopment Group and marketed by Bowlby, Paulsen & Associaties of Carmel.
